It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

Introduction

The inspiration and desire to make this research in Family History was born in the heart and mind of the author in the days of his childhood, from the story frequently told him by an aged grandparent on maternal side. This was the story of their escape late in the year 1784 from an Indian raid, in a canoe across the Susquehanna River, when, looking back, they saw their new and humble home in the far-famed Wyoming Valley, burned with all its contents by the Indians. The same desire all through life to find the spot where this early home in Luzerne County stood, was at length rewarded a few years since, and the author stood on the heap of stones, which remain to this day undisturbed for more than a century, to mark the spot, and hand down to memory the story of the cruelty of the wily and savage foe of those early days, and of the hardships endured by these hardy and brave pioneers, among whom were the great-grandsire of the author, viz., Richard Dodson, and his two brothers, John and Samuel, who settled in Luzerne County about the close of the War of the Revolution. It is the purpose of the author to place a tablet to mark the site of that early home.

Genealogical research naturally leads backward from a known and given ancestor in family history, to the earliest source of name and lineage, and thence forward mid the growing and wide-spreading branches of the Tree, to the latest living generation of descendants, even though it requires every letter in the alphabet to furnish initials for their surnames.

The laudable purpose of such research should ever be, not merely for Family pride, but the sincere desire to preserve both for living and future generations, names and deeds, examples worthy of emulation in the making of a country's history in the day in which they lived.

The field of this research has been very large both in England and in this country—requiring several years on the part of the author personally, and also professional work of expert genealogists. The information thus obtained has been by an examination of a vast amount of material, viz., church and parish records, colonial records, old family Bibles, tombstones, old letters, wills, deeds, land warrants, surveys, field notes of early surveyors, tax lists, signatures, &c., besides data from a collection of unindexed papers of records, of Bucks, Chester and Northampton Counties,—in all, about one hundred and fifty volumes, preserved in the Historical Society Library of Pennsylvania, in the Maryland Historical Library in Baltimore, and Archives in Annapolis. Also records of Friends' meetings in England, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, Burke's Peerages, Fairbairn's Crests and Coats of Arms, and Luttrell's Annals of 100 Years.

The earliest records known of the Dodson name in this country are as follows:

1st. Colonial Annals of Virginia mention "Dodson's Plantation" in 1632.

2nd. Dean's History of Scituate, Massachusetts, records the name of Anthony Dodson and descendants from 1650 to 1705 (page 263).

3rd, Maryland Colonial Records, in the old State House at Annapolis, mention the arrival there of a John Dodson in 1656, followed later by a son John and a daughter Katharine. These Johns settled in Calvert and Charles Counties. Their wills are also of record there in 1733 and later.

4th. The arrival of Dodsons in 1677 at the New Quaker settlement of Burlington, New Jersey.

Following this 4th statement a preliminary reference to the Colonial History of the early settlement of New Jersey is both important and appropriate in this introduction to the Genealogy of the Pennsylvania and Maryland Dodson Branches, with which they were first identified, and whence they departed for other lands and homes.

In the settlement of New Jersey, and because of the various and serious disputes as to lines and boundaries between the conflicting grants, grantees and lessees, William Penn was appointed as arbitrator, he himself becoming finally proprietor by purchase and agreement with four other Masters of

DODSON GENEALOGY.

West New Jersey, then so called. These five Proprietors in 1676 appointed three Commissioners—Penn, as chief or head, being already in New Jersey—to settle said disputes, purchase additional lands from the Indians, lay out a town, which was first called New Beverly, later Burlington—and establish a government. Penn drew up a constitution of very liberal principles, which he called "Concessions," and which he described in brief as follows: "That the ages might understand their liberty as men and Christians, that they may not be brought in bondage, but by their own consent, for we put the power in the people."

This early declaration of "Liberty and Independence," made by Penn a century earlier than the one which freed the Colonies from the Mother Country and made this Nation, naturally attracted large numbers of the persecuted Quakers of England to New Jersey, aided and also encouraged by Penn.

Among these Quaker colonists in 1677, were John, Thomas and Mary Dodson, brothers and a sister, in company with the Stacys, Buntings and Boyes.—(Burlington Records.)

From this given and starting point our research begins.

This volume will contain the History and Genealogy, chronologically arranged, beginning with the Parent family of the Dodson Jersey colonists, of Knaresborough, Yorkshire, England.

John, the older brother, left Burlington, crossed over into Bucks County, Pennsylvania, and settled there about the time Penn returned from England in 1682 with his grant as Proprietor of Pennsylvania, and his first colony of settlers therein.

Thomas also left Burlington some time after 1700, went down into Maryland and settled in Talbot County, on the eastern shore of the Chesapeake Bay, where many of his descendants still remain, while also a long line of descendants, thro' his son John, who settled in Virginia about 1725, are found there and in North Carolina. John, Sr., thus became the head of the Pennsylvania Branch, and Thomas of the Maryland and one Virginia Branch.

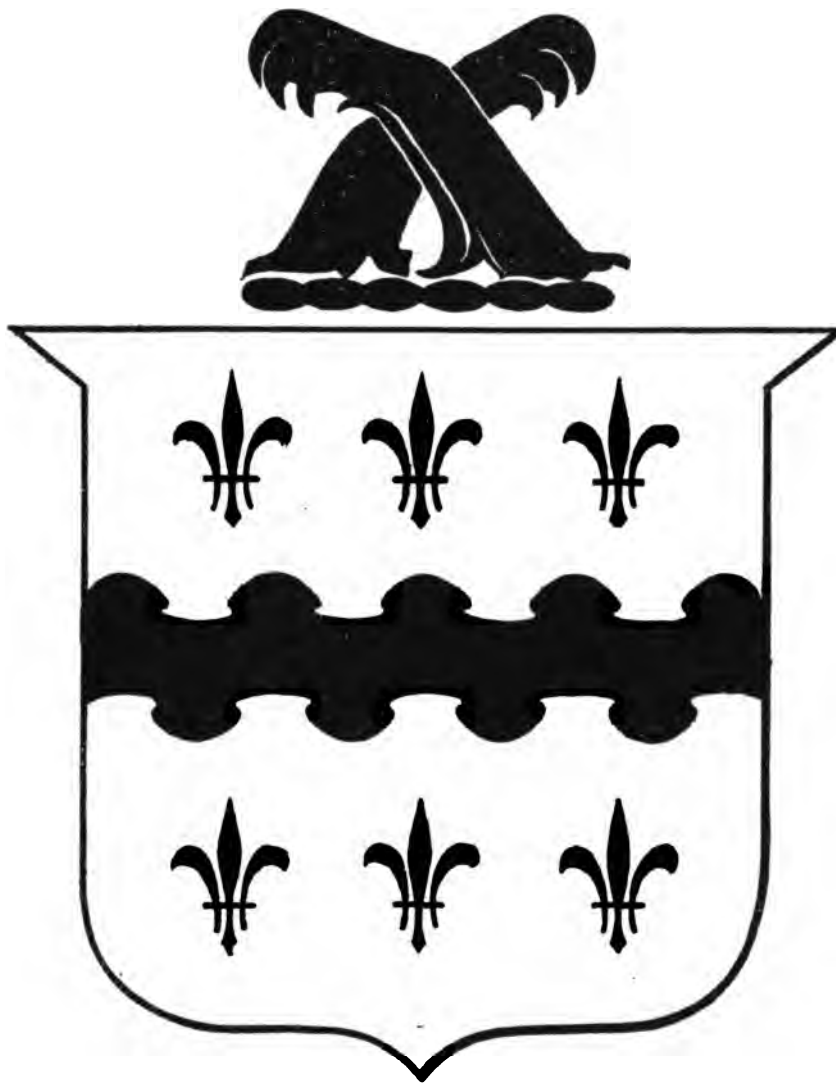

In addition to this line from a common English ancestor, and during the general and widely extended research thereof throughout our country, many other Dodsons and their descendants have been found, notably two other Maryland lines of English descent, also various other branches from early Virginia colonists. One in particular has been widely extended—first to Kentucky and Tennessee (latter part of 1700 and early part of 1800)—and thence to Ohio, Indiana and Missouri and further south, all evidently from the same early Virginia ancestor, probably the 1632 possessor of "Dodson Plantation." Around these so much of interest is centered, that they will follow in the order of records and traditions received.

These all must have been from one original English source,—as English Records mention the name in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries.

The "Domesday Book," of earliest English records of lands, owners and lessees, of Hertfordshire, gives the name of "Dode," and a Son "Alcynius Dodesone, tenant-in-chief." From this early English source the name Dodson very easily and naturally follows. The name therefore may be either Celtic or Anglo-Saxon, as it is difficult to determine from this earliest record.

- 4 David, b. abt. 1659.
- 5 Dorothy, b. abt. 1661.

- 7 William, b. abt. 1666.
- 8 Thomas, b. October 19th, 1669.

The Burlington Records, New Jersey, furnished the names of the three who came in 1677 with other Quaker settlers to their new settlement, and stated Yorkshire as the place of their English home. This fact gave the clue for research in England. The fact that they were Quakers limited the search somewhat to the Society of Friends, and their various places of meeting, as well as to the Parish Records of the English Church in the vicinity of Friends' meetings. It is worthy of note that the only Dodson names, found by expert research in any Friends' Meeting Records, were in this one of Knaresborough; and while Dodson names were found in the Parish Records, both before and after the time of this particular family, none of the above names were found in them. The Friends record as given was beautifully kept and well preserved, and it is a matter of regret that the expert searcher was so rejoiced to find the names of the New Jersey three, that the exact birth dates of all the others of the family were not taken.

There may seem to be a difficulty in reconciling the fact that Mary and Thomas were so young at the time of their coming to New Jersey in 1677. This may be explained as follows: The parents of these brothers and sister may have died, and John, the oldest son, was responsible for the care of this youngest brother and sister. Besides this, a reference in the Town Annals of Burlington show that the Buntings were related to the Dodsons, in whose company they came, and it is very probable that the wife of John was one of this family, as no record of his marriage is found there, except that he had children. Mary and Thomas, therefore, had care-takers during the period of their youth.

BRIEF REFERENCE TO THE JERSEY THREE

1. John Dodson, of Daniel I, settled finally in Cheltenham Township, then Philadelphia County, near the Bucks County line, and nearly opposite Burlington County. He became a farmer there, and was living there as late as 1725, at which time, (April 7th, 1725) he witnessed the Will of one Toby Lynch. (Reference, "Will Book E, page 10, Philadelphia Record Office.")

5. Mary Dodson, of Daniel I. Born Nov. 11, 1664; married in Burlington in 1683, Richard Boyes. Reference "Town Annals of Burlington."

This line has not been traced, tho' there are descendants of the Boyes name still remaining in Burlington County.

7. Thomas Dodson, of Daniel I. Born October 19, 1669; married July 16, 1698, Katharine Savill, daughter of John Savill, of Snape, England.

The genealogy of Thomas and descendants will begin that of the Maryland Branch and follow in order the Pennsylvania Branch.

CHRONOLOGICAL SCHEME OF ARRANGEMENT

This will be as follows: Beginning with oldest child of each family, if married and with issue, their line of descendants will follow, child after child in the order of birth, by families of each to their latest generation. Then the next child of each family to their latest generation, and likewise family after family in like manner.

* No issue. || No data. () Reference numbers. (S) unmarried. G generation. M married.

Line of descent and key to the generation of each person heading a family record.

The line of descent, and the numerical place held by each child in a family, is shown by a figure before the first letter of the Christian name. Thus: 1Thompson P. Ege, 4Susannah, 7Nancy, 6Richard, 1Thomas, 1John, Daniel I.

Reading from left to right, the figure before each name indicates the number of each child in the order of birth of the name following, and so on down to No. I. The generation to which any name in the line belongs is determined by counting the names from right to left to that name. Thus Thompson P. Ege will be found to be of the 7th generation.

PENNSYLVANIA BRANCH

2. G II: John Dodson, Daniel I, b. Mch., 1655, d. after 1725, m. abt. 1760, probably a Bunting, as Burlington Annals "speak of a relationship."

G III: Probably others, both before and after Thomas.

- 9 1. Thomas Dodson, 1 John, Daniel I, b. abt. 1685, d. after 1760. Chester County, Pa.
9(a) M. 4. 14, 1718. Mary Prigg, b. 1699, d. —
10 G IV: 1. John Dodson, b. 4, 10, 1720; d. 3, 10, 1818.
11 2. Michael, b. 1722; baptized at this date in Christ Church, Philadelphia.
12 3. Ann, b. 1725.
13 4. Hannah, b. 12, 7, 1727.
14 5. William, b. Aug., 1729.
15 6. Richard, b. 6, 26, 1731; d. 1785.
16 7. Thomas, b. 1732.
17 8. James, b. 1734.
18 9. Mary, b. 1736.
19 10. Joseph, b. 1737.
20 11. Samuel, b. 5, 6, 1738.
21 12. Esther, b. 1740.

Thomas, after his marriage, date of which is of record, in that of First Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, settled in Chester County, Pa., about 1723, having purchased land from the Franklins in Vincent Township. He is mentioned in tax lists as owning land there in 1729. In 1756 he removed to East Nantmeal Township. In 1758, tax rolls mention him as owning lands in both townships and still living in the latter township at that date.

A survey map, by Benjamin Lightfoot, on August 25th, 1755, shows land of Thomas, and an adjoining tract of his son, John. A tracing of said survey is in possession of the author.

Mary Prigg, wife of Thomas, was born in 1699, on the voyage from England to this country. She was the daughter of William and Mary Prigg. The father died in 1715 in

DODSON GENEALOGY.

Philadelphia and his wife administered on the estate, August 10, 1715.

Their children were born, except the two oldest, in Chester County, where they were all reared, and whence they all finally scattered to other places to find homes of their own.

An interesting record recently found by the writer, of Baptisms by the Rev. John Caspar Stoeber, gives the dates of birth, and date of Baptism Decr. 3rd, 1731, of Hannah, William and Richard, at French Creek, the part of Chester County through which it courses being thus named.

From this point the Genealogy will be carried out, beginning with first child of Thomas and Mary Prigg Dodson, and following out his line to its latest generation, child after child in succession, each in like manner.

HISTORIC SKETCH.

John had license January, 1745, to marry Mary Eleanor Evans, of Wales, granted by the Court of Chester County. John Appears on the tax rolls of the county, Vincent Township, in 1753, and also in 1764, then owning sixty acres of tillable land, with buildings, and twenty acres of woodland in said township.

John's two sons were born in Chester County. John removed to Salem Township, Luzerne County, in 1777, but was driven out by the Indians. He returned later. with his sons, and made themselves homes, clearing virgin forests there for buildings and farms. He lived for nearly a hundred years, and both himself and wife were buried in a small cemetery near Harveyville, Pa., in the same county, where their descendants placed tombstones in 1837 over parents and grandparents.

It has been a tradition among the decendants that both

DODSON GENEALOGY.

John and his oldest son, Thomas, were soldiers in the War of the Revolution, at least for a brief period.

A recent search and inquiry in the Revolutionary Records in the State Library at Harrisburg gives the following:

Harrisburg, Pa., April 12, 1907.

To whom it may concern:

I hereby certify that the name of John Dodson appears "as that of a private on a 'Return' of First Company, Second Battalion, Chester County Militia, commanded by Lieut. Colonel Thomas Bull, who are ordered on a tour of duty immediately. September 24, 1781."

Page 336, Vol. V. Penna Archives, Fifth Series.

Also on the same date, as follows:

To whom it may concern:

I hereby certify that the name of Thomas Dodson appears as that of a private on a Roll of Captain John Christie's Company of the Fifth Pennsylvania Regiment, commanded by Colonel Francis Johnston. September 9th, 1775.

Page 39, Vol. III, Penna. Archives, 5th series.

[Signed]—as above.

(Seal.) Luther R. Kelker.

This later record, however, is not conclusive as to Thomas, son of John, as a record of another Thomas, son of Michael, of Chester County, was a member of the above-named Regiment and was a pensioner from 1818 until his death in 1825.

Again, the fact that John Dodson, oldest of the three brothers of the Luzerne settlers (in 1777), was driven out by the Indians, and returned for a time to Chester County, would make it very probable that he could serve in the interim (before his return to Luzerne County), as the date 1781 records in the army. At this date he was 61 years of age, but as he lived to within less than two years of one hundred, he could easily have had the vigor of a stalwart soldier. So this certified record of John Dodson, of Chester County, will hardly admit of a doubt as to the person believed to be the soldier.

HISTORIC AND CHARACTER SKETCH.

Thomas, after his marriage, became associated with the family of Nathan Beach, Sr., having for a time his home with them, at Beach Haven, Salem Township, Luzerne County. He assisted Nathan Beach in the building of one of the early flour mills of the region. Thomas finally settled on a farm near the mills, and was both farmer and miller. Thomas was a participant in many of the Indian attacks incident to the early settlement of the Wyoming Valley region. He was well versed in their wily tactics, and became a noted fighter and trailer, and was often called out to battle against the skulking foe. On the occasion of one of their attacks on a Block House near Beach Haven, to which, taking warning, many of the nearby inhabitants had fled for safety, and while Thomas and his wife were also fleeing to this place of refuge, they suddenly thought of their infant child left asleep in their home. Bidding his wife to remain hidden, he hastened back to bring it to her. This interval of delay saved their lives, for the Indians had been temporarily repulsed and had retired to a thicket in a ravine after killing and wounding several of the defenders. After reaching safety in the fort, Thomas called for volunteers to aid in driving them off. Young Nathan Beach, though a boy, ventured to go. Having secured guns and ammunition in the fort, they went forth, Nathan to carry and load the guns, under strict orders to follow close behind and under cover. They soon espied an Indian peeping from behind a tree, whom Thomas instantly shot and killed. In a few moments another, stealthily creeping to drag away his dead companion, met a similar fate. After nightfall the Indians took away the bodies of the slain, and departed. Thomas and the other refugees remained in the fort all night. Next morning Thomas and others followed their trail for many miles, finding where they buried their dead, but did not overtake them.

Mehetabel (a good Old Testament Bible name, (contracted to Mabel), was the daughter of Elias Bixby and Deziar Herrick, of Puritan stock. Elias Bixby was a sea captain, and lost his life at sea. His widow married Nathan Beach, Sr., in Connecticut, and came with the colony from that State to the Wyoming Valley. She had four Bixby children, Elias, David, Mehetabel and Susannah. The two sons lost their lives in the Wyoming massacre, and their names are inscribed on the commemorative shaft erected there.

Deziar Herrick, the mother of Mehetabel Bixby, came from distinguished English ancestry, viz., Lord and Lady Herrick of "Beau Manoir," Leicestershire, England. Their son Henry, Puritan settler in Salem, Massachusetts; his son Ephriam and wife, Mary Cross, Beverly, Mass.; his son Samuel and wife Mehetabel Woodward, Beverly, Mass.; his son Ezekial and wife (name unknown), Coventry, Conn.; his daughter, Deziar, married, 1st Elias Bixby, 2nd Nathan Beach, Sr., 3rd, in her old age, Joseph Rhodes, and died September 18th, 1804.

Thomas and wife were devoted Christians and members of the Methodist Church. Their hospitable home was, during his life, the place of general worship, the home of the itinerant minister, and the place where all Christian people were ever welcome, as followers and brethren of the same Divine Master and Father.

Their numerous and respected children partook largely of the same spirit, thus exemplified by the parents, and were mostly members of the same religious society. Their parents' names were household words in their day and generation, and generations following, as their repeated names in a long line of descendants will testify.

HISTORIC AND CHARACTER SKETCH.

Nathan Dodson Cortright, Sr., was born at Beach Grove, Salem Township, Luzerne County, Pa., February 11, 1817. At the age of nineteen he entered the employ of Pardee & Fell, as a Civil Engineer, in the building of the Beaver Meadow, Hazleton and Summit Hill railroads. Three years later he was appointed general shipping and boat agent of the Hazleton Coal Company. In 1842 he was made superintendent of the same company, which position he held until 1857, when he engaged in the coal business for himself in Mauch Chunk, having taken up his residence there in the meantime. In this business he was very successful for forty-five years, being associated with his son, N. D. Cortright, Jr., at the time of his death. He was director of the Second National Bank of Mauch Chunk for many years, a leading member of St. Paul's Methodist Church from 1854, holding office in the same. He was ever active in Sunday School, Bible and Temperance causes generally. His conversation was intensely interesting and instructive. He had a vivid and retentive memory of the past, and kept in touch with events and progress of the present. He was recognized as one of the most useful and valuable citizens of his community. He was a man of modest tastes and inclinations and his home life was a model of happy and christian example. He loved his country and had great faith in its stability and greatness. He was deeply interested in geology and often mentioned to friends in conversation, that he believed that with the improved facilities in science and electricity many valuable minerals would be found and developed in the mountains of Carbon County. His family record appears from numbers 25-34 and 230-247.

SKETCH.

Elias Dodson, the head of this family, was born and reared in Huntington Township, Luzerne County. He was an heroic and stalwart yeoman of his day. He was an extensive landholder and operated saw and grist mills, and a thorough business man. Besides this he became an able preacher of the Baptist faith and caused to be built the first Baptist place of worship in his native township. He found time 'midst his active business to lead a life of great usefulness and good works in his community. In the fulfilment of various calls and duties, he feared neither storm nor hindrance, and left behind him a name still fresh in the memory of the few remaining ones of the generation following him, for his worth and example of good works. Many incidents in his life are still household legends oft repeated.

iness life and influence, at once embarked in lumbering in his native forests of Columbia and Luzerne counties. This was a very profitable business in that region, even in that day of plentiful supply.

When the call for volunteers came in 1861, to defend their country from dissolution, he promptly obeyed, and at the age of 28, enlisted for the war, in Co. F, 7th Penna Reserves. He participated in all the principal battles of the Army of the Potomac. During the occasional respite of arduous duties and rest in camp life, he formed a friend in the midst of foes, and a pleasant hour now and then, in a Southern home and congenial company. When the war was over and he had received his honorable discharge, he returned to Virginia to claim this fair lady of the South as his bride. He again returned to Virginia and took up the business of his young manhood there for five years. Then returned to his Pennsylvania home, bought a large tract of valuable timber land, erected saw mills and continued in this profitable business with success for the rest of his busy years.

He was a congenial companion, a member of the G. A. R., influential in the affairs of state, and served well in the local offices of his county.

SKETCH.

In this family of George Dodson it is worthy of note that his four sons and two sons-in-law were soldiers in the Civil War. The record of Elias B., his oldest son, and sketch of his life follows that of his family, numbers 353-356. James T., second son, enlisted in the company of the famous Buck-tails, 149th Regt., Pa. Vol., Infantry. During his period of service he was a prisoner in Salisbury, N. C., for seven months. After his exchange he rejoined his Regiment and served the full period of his enlistment shortly before the close of the war. Charles M. enlisted in the 52nd Regiment, Pa. Vol. Infantry, for three years, but after one year was discharged by reason of disability from sickness. He was then appointed enrolling officer for the second draft, and suffered great opposition and abuse at the hands of those who were bitter against their government, and did all in their power to thwart and hinder its success. After a year he re-enlisted in Company B, 199th Regt., in which he served until the end of the war. Chester, the youngest son, was only sixteen years of age when the war began, but he managed to be accepted as a substitute for nine months. When his time expired, he re-enlisted in the 16th Penna. Cavalry, in which he served until the end of the war. Lane Hedden, son-in-law of George Dodson, enlisted in Company E, 188th Regt., Pa. Vol., Infantry. Was wounded at Drury's Bluff May 16, 1864, having three fingers of his right hand shot off, after which he was honorably discharged. Furman Smith, another son-in-law, who was an industrious farmer, and in winter a school teacher, having taught in all thirty-six terms, enlisted in the army in the spring of 1864, in Company K, 112th Regiment, Pa. Vol. Heavy Artillery, and served until the end of the war.

Note.—Silas Dodson, the head of this family and their descendants, began his active life as a farmer in his native county, but his energetic mind and spirit led him into the more active business of life, engaging extensively in lumbering, with steam mill power aid. He served as County Commissioner of Luzerne County for three years. He was the first Republican elected in his county to any public office. Not long after, he became interested in other business firms and enterprises. He went to California; invented several useful machines; traveled extensively, making two trips to Europe in the interest of his inventions; finally removed to New York City, where he died in 1888, and was buried in Bay View Cemetery.

He erected the first tannery in this region and conducted it with energy and success for many years. The old buildings still stand near the village of Town Hill. His children soon after maturity scattered to different portions of the State, and in several of the Western States.

SKETCH.

Hon. John Dodson Stiles, seventh son of Lewis and Sarah Ann Dodson Stiles, was born at Town Hill, Luzerne County, Pennsylvania, January 15, 1823. He became one of the most prominent men of his day, and lived a life of great usefulness, in State and National as well as community affairs. He acquired a liberal academic education, afterwards studied law, and was admitted to the bar at Mauch Chunk, Pennsylvania, June 24th, 1844, shortly after attaining his majority, and on September 5th of the same year he was admitted to the bar of Allentown, in which city he took up his residence, and with which he was prominently identified thenceforth throughout his life.

He became a leading practitioner, and during his life conducted an extensive and lucrative practice. His entrance upon public life dates from 1853, when he was elected District Attorney for Lehigh County, to which office he was elected without any opposition, and in which position he served for three years, acquitting himself most creditably.

He was a Democrat in politics, and in 1856 was chosen a delegate to the National Convention, which nominated for the Presidency, James Buchanan,, whom he aided largely in obtaining his nomination, and whom he held in honor as a statesman and in affection as a friend. In that memorable contest, the organization of the party was attributed to the young men of Pennsylvania, prominent among whom was Mr. Stiles. In his county, Mr. Buchanan received a larger increased majority than in any other county in Pennsylvania.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

In 1860 Thomas B. Cooper, a Democrat and intimate friend of Mr. Stiles, was elected to Congress from the Fifth District of Pennsylvania, composed of the counties of Lehigh and Bucks, by a majority of one hundred votes. Mr. Cooper entered upon his duties, but in the beginning of the second session of the 32nd Congress he died, and Governor Curtin, fearing that a Democrat might be elected, delayed his proclamation for a special election for an unreasonable length of time, but finally ordered an election for the 24th of May, 1862. Mr. Stiles, with great unanimity, received the Democratic nomination but a single week before the election. Congress was then in session, and the outbreak of the war caused the election to be one of the most exciting that ever took place in the State.

The district had been represented by a radical in the preceding Congress, and was considered a doubtful one. Mr. Stiles was elected by 585 majority, a greater majority than had been given for any Democrat for years. He assumed his seat in the 37th Congress on the third day of June, 1862, and at once took an active part in its proceedings. In that body he served upon the Committees on Expenditures in the State Department, and on Revolutionary Claims.

By the apportionment of the State in 1862, his Congressional district was changed,—Montgomery County having been annexed to Lehigh, and Bucks County with Philadelphia. In the new district of Lehigh and Montgomery, Mr. Stiles was, by unanimous consent placed in nomination for re-election. The radicals made vigorous efforts to defeat him. His record in Congress on the war, was made because of bitterness, and he was most strenuously opposed because of his position on the first Tax Bill, against which he spoke and voted in the 37th Congress.

His opponent, Judge Krause, who shortly before deserted the Democratic party, was a man of great popularity and of great ability. He was denominated a "War Democrat" and hoped to receive sufficient support from the Democracy to carry the district. Mr. Stiles received a most flattering endorsement, carrying his district against fierce personal opposition by a majority of 3,224.

In 1864 Mr. Stiles was not a candidate for renomination. He was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in 1864, which nominated General McClellan, whom he supported. He took an active part in the ensuing campaign. In 1866 he was a delegate appointed by the Democratic State Central Committee to the National Union Convention, which assembled in Philadelphia.

In the Democratic State Convention of 1866, Mr. Stiles, though not a candidate, received the vote of his own and several other counties for Governor. In 1866 he was a delegate to the National Convention which nominated Mr. Seymour, and in the same year his county, again being entitled to a candidate, he was unanimously placed in nomination and was elected to the 41st Congress by a majority of 2679. During his entire service in Congress, Mr. Stiles was favored with prominent positions on the committees of the House, and took an active part in its proceedings. No man was more active and determined in the opposition to the land grab subsidies, and his course in Congress was unanimously approved in his district upon all the great questions which agitated the country during his three terms of service.

Mr. Stiles never asked and never received an appointment to office, either Federal or State, but was always elected to the same.

SKETCH.

Harry Gibbons Stiles is the second child and second son of Honorable John Dodson and Mary A. (Gibbons) Stiles. He began his studies in the public schools of Allentown, later attended the public schools of Princeton, Ill., for six years, and was graduated from the High School of Allentown, on the 30th of June, 1874. For two years thereafter he pursued special branches in Muhlenberg College, and then entered the Law School of Harvard University, from which he was graduated in 1878.

He was also favored with instructions by his father in his professional studies, and on April 14th, 1879, he was admitted to practice at the bar of Lehigh County, and at once formed a partnership with his father under the firm name of John D. Stiles & Son.

On the 27th day of September, 1889, Mr. Stiles married Miss Annie Yheulon, of Allentown, the daughter of Joseph and Caroline Yheulon, well known people of his native city, where they have a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

In 1884 he was elected District Attorney by the immense majority of 3300 votes, for the term of three years, and acquitted himself with great ability and credit to the office. On the expiration of his term as District Attorney he again resumed the general practice of law. In 1894 he was nominated as the Democratic candidate for State Senator in the district composed of Lehigh County, and he was the only man elected on his party's ticket.

In 1898 he was elected State Senator by a handsome majority of 2000 votes. He has frequently served as a delegate to the County and State Conventions of his party. On the expiration of his term as Senator, Mr. Stiles again resumed the practice of law, and has since conducted a large and lucrative practice.

Mr. Stiles always gave close, careful and intelligent attention to his public duties. The greater part of his time and attention, however, is devoted to his legal practice and in the prosecution of his chosen profession, in which he has met with most excellent success.

Note.—Caroline Matilda Harrison was the daughter of Mary Dodson, of Samuel and Elizabeth Rhodes Dodson, and of Stephen Harrison, Jr., who was the son of Stephen Harrison, Sr., and Susannah Franklin. The Harrisons had the same ancestry as the two Harrison Presidents of the United States, and the Franklins were near relatives of Benjamin Franklin. See sketch after Nos. 3593-3606.

Malvina Augusta Dodson, the first born child of this family, developed early in life into a lovely Christian character. She was finely educated and had made full preparation for missionary work in the foreign field, and when about to embark for India to begin her chosen work, death claimed her for his own.

Another member of this family claims very special record, Dr. Caroline Matilda Dodson. She was a very gifted woman and in a checkered career emphasized the use of her gifts in many ways. Her parents were natives of Hunting-ton Valley, Luzerne County, Pa., who soon after their marriage removed to the West, where the subject of this sketch was born. Her mother was a woman of strong character and advanced thought, and after the death of her husband was compelled to aid largely in the support of herself and her children. To this end she opened a school in her own house, Under this mother's rearing and instruction, Caroline began her education, pursuing it thoroughly until she also became a successful teacher, which she followed until she matriculated, at the Woman's Medical College, in Philadelphia, graduating also in the nurses' training school of the Woman's Hospital. She received her diploma in 1874 as a physician, after which she spent a year in hospital practice. Her active and energetic mind, in connection with her profession, led her in association with numerous societies of church and charity, temperance and education, and the higher and nobler activities of woman. She was a devoted member of the Baptist Church, and in her workings of Temple Church and College founded by Dr. Conwell in Philadelphia. She both wrote and spoke bravely and later years was deeply interested in the earnest and successful earnestly in behalf of the various movements for good which claimed her interest. Many beautiful poems also emanated from her pen, one of which will close this tribute to her noble and Christian character. She died in Philadelphia January, 1898. Her remains were taken to Luzerne County and interred in the old Scott Cemetery there.

THE TRACKLESS SEA.

A ship out on the trackless sea,
 With sails full spread,
Gliding over waves so free,
 By breezes fed.

The gentle winds have caught her sails
 At break of day,
As though they sought by friendly gales
 To speed her way.

A tiny, fairy, wandering thing
 Out there alone;
As though a bird on slender wing
 Had hither flown.

The parting waves with silvery spray,
 Obey command,
Speeding each hour her homeward way
 To native land.

Thus out upon the waves of life,
 My little bark
I would have carried free from strife,
 Through light or dark.

I'd have the sea be calm and clear,
 Each hour to come,
No clouds to lend a darkening fear,
 'Till I reach home.

Let heaven's sunbeams near and far,
 Light morn and noon,
And if night come, kind moon and star
 Dispel the gloom.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

Ships passing leave no trace behind,
And so shall I
Full soon a blessed harbor find,
And homeward fly.

The sands of life like ripened grain
Will seek the shore,
And garnered safe, wander again
Aye, never more!

DODSON GENEALOGY.

SKETCH.

Ritner Dodson was born in Luzerne County, Pa. His parents moved to Keosauqua, Illinois, when he was one year old. In 1857 removed to Walnut Grove, California, crossing the plains with an ox team. Since 1868 has resided in Cambria, San Luis Obispo County, California. He owns a large farm known as "GrapeVine Ranch;" has been president of Cambria Bank for some years; is a man of genial and charitable disposition and has always been active and influential in the best interests of his community.

SKETCH.

No positive trace of this family, in several years' research, has been ascertained. Records imperfect and dates lacking, and knowledge of them lost almost entirely from living relatives. And this knowledge is now only a pathetic remembrance of a sad history. John Dodson, the father of this family, owned a small but unproductive farm on the east side of the Susquehanna River, in his native Luzerne County. On this he struggled for several years to maintain his family. One day a stranger called to see him and said: "I hear you wish to sell your farm." The reply was: "It is not worth buying, and any man who would buy it would be throwing his money away. If I had the means to move from it and do something else, I would give it away." The stranger replied: "My friend, you are surely joking or else having a very severe attack of the blues. Won't you name a price for it? I am in earnest and will buy it at a fair price." The reply of the unhappy owner was: "Now you are joking. I would be ashamed to name a price." The stranger said: "Will you take $4,000 for it?" This was still more of a joke on the part of the owner, and he could not believe it. But the parley ended in his receiving the offer, and the farm was sold. The poor farm, so unproductive on the surface, was soon proved by the sequel of the transaction to have its riches underneath. And the sleek stranger soon sold it for the round sum of $100,000.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

The discouraged farmer parted with his unknown and hidden wealth for a song, and with the money received went to the West to buy a farm in the richer prairie lands of Illinois, settling in Ogle County, at or near the little town of Polo. In three months after his arrival he died with cholera, June 24th, 1849. This was but the beginning of sorrows. His oldest daughter, Mrs. Doctor White, was thrown out of a carriage in a runaway of the horses, and killed. Another daughter, Mary, who was a teacher in Mt. Morris Seminary, at the close of the school term, started on her way home and was never heard of again, but was thought to have been robbed and murdered. Two sons, Hilzey and Melville, were in the Civil War, and lost their lives therein. Another son, Fletcher, while en route to California, overland, was slain by the Indians near the site of Fort Wala Wala. Such a chapter of fatalities in sad succession is rare in the history of one family.

SKETCH.

Robert Hamilton Dodson was "coxswain" of the ill-fated crew of the steam launch of the U. S. warship "Minnesota," which went down with all on board between 12 and 1 o'clock on the early morning of June 11th, 1907, in Hampton Roads, Va., while returning from the Jamestown exposition.

The following extract from the letter of Captain John Hubbard, commanding the Minnesota, to his father, is a tribute to his memory and worth:

"I consider that the Navy has sustained a great loss when your son was drowned, as he has been most zealous and efficient in the performance of his duties, and reflected great credit upon his ship and the naval service in general. He lost his life while in the performance of his duty."

DODSON GENEALOGY.

His body was recovered and sent to his Chicago home. He was buried June 22nd, in "Oakwoods Cemetery" with naval honors. Six cadets from the naval reserve ship "Dorothea," in full uniform, were the pall bearers.

Note.—Jesse Bowman Dodson was born and reared on the early homestead farm taken up by his father in the pioneer days of the early settlement of the Shickshinny Valley, Luzerne County. Here also he spent his useful and influential life. He was a man of strong religious character, an active member of the Methodist Church, and ever earnest and efficient for its welfare, and in all efforts for the moral betterment of the community in which he lived—a valuable citizen, whose place and example were felt as a loss when his summons came and his work was ended.

JOHN AND MARY ELEANOR EVANS DODSON LINE.

SKETCH.

With the last mentioned name of the Dodson-Barnes alliance, viz, Howard Franklin Moreland, born September 26th, 1906, ends the remarkable line of descendants of John and Mary Eleanor Evans Dodson, whom said John had license from the court of Chester County in 1745 to marry. John was the oldest son of Thomas, the first born American ancestor, who married Mary Prigg in 1718, and soon after marriage settled in Chester County, Pa.

The early sons of Chester county birth and rearing, as families multiplied, soon began to scatter, first to other portions of the State, to seek new homes and lands. They were nature's stalwart yeomanry, and very naturally their first occupation was to clear the forests, build homes and till the virgin soil.

A generation or two later, we find them scattering still further West for cheaper lands in the rich prairie soil. Now living descendants are found in almost every State of the West and Northwest, in farming, business and mining enterprises, and in the professions of law, medicine and the church. Many were soldiers in the Civil War, others have filled public positions in county and State, and all leaving an impress of stability and usefulness in their day and generation.

THOMAS AND MARY PRIGGS DODSON.

A brief record of some other children of Thomas and Mary Prigg Dodson, than those fully recorded in this volume, but of whom very little is known beyond the mention of their names, must properly follow here.

Michael Dodson, second son, a record of whose baptism in 1722, is preserved in the parish archives of Christ Church, Philadelphia.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

Michael married (name of wife unknown) and had issue—two sons, Michael, Jr., and Thomas Dodson. Michael Dodson, Sr., was a farmer and was assessed in Vincent Township, Chester County, Pa., in 1749, and also in 1753, being then married. He removed later to Lehigh County and died there. Michael, Jr., born about 1746, was a private in Chester County Militia in 1776, and later during the Revolution was a member of the Fifth Regiment of the famous Pennsylvania line. Thomas, born about 1748, was also a Revolutionary soldier in the same regiment. Thomas drew a pension of ninety-six dollars a year, dating from January 26th, 1818, until his death, April 10th, 1825. Both sons were born in Chester County, but followed their father and two uncles to Northampton County and settled for a time in that portion of the county which is now Lehigh County. Michael, Sr., died there. The sons afterwards went to Berkley County, now West Virginia, where they both died.

No positive knowledge of any descendants of these has been ascertained. Michael, Jr., at least must have married and left issue. During the researches of the author, a Griffith Dodson was found in Clinton, Douglas County Kansas, who stated that his father's name was Michael, and that he and his wife were born in the Allegheny mountain region of West Virginia; maiden name of his wife was Belle, and that they had six sons.

3rd. Ann Dodson. Born about 1725. Married James Bur-nason.

4th. Hannah Dodson. Born December 7, 1727. Married William Templin.

5th. William Dodson. Born August, 1729.

7th. James Dodson. Born about 1732.

8th. Joseph Dodson. Born about 1734.

James and Joseph went soon after or about the close of the Revolution, to Kentucky, and were never heard of again as far as the memories and traditions of older descendants of their Luzerne brothers knew.

Except the scant knowledge of Michael's sons nothing further has ever been ascertained of these. No record of William, beyond that of his baptism and birth date, has been found, nor any mention or tradition handed down from ancestors. It is very probable that he died in his childhood or young manhood; nor any knowledge of Esther, the youngest child of the Chester county progeny.

The tabulated and historic records of John, Richard, Thomas and Samuel will therefore form the body of the history of the Pennsylvania branch.

RICHARD AND SUSANNAH RHODES DODSON LINE. SKETCH.

Richard Dodson, fourth son of Thomas and Mary Prigg Dodson, was born in Chester County, Pa., June 26, 1731, and with a brother and sister, William and Hannah, were baptized at the same time, December 3, 1731, by Rev. John Caspar Stoever, Jr., an early Lutheran missionary, who ministered to the scattered people of the several counties in the eastern part of the State. This reference of birth and baptism dates was recently found by the author in a record of baptisms and marriages, as written by Rev. John Casper Stoever, and recently translated from the German (1896) by Rev. J. F. J. Schantz, D. D., of Myerstown, Pa. Said record book is now preserved in the Pennsylvania Historical Society Library in Philadelphia.

Richard removed about the time or soon after his marriage to Penn Township, Northampton County, Pa., where he purchased and owned land near some other brothers and members of the Rhodes family, relatives of his wife, Susannah Rhodes, granddaughter of John Rhodes, of Derbyshire, England, who came to Pennsylvania in 1682, with Wm. Penn, and took up a large body of land, on which is now the town of Darby, a suburb of Philadelphia, and so named by him from his native shire of England.

"Barlborough Hall," the ancient baronial home of Rhodes' ancestry in Derbyshire, is still in the possession of descendants, of whom the late Cecil Rhodes, of African and English fame, was one, and of whose beneficent founding of "Oxford scholarships," American students are now participants.

During the war of the Revolution, Richard Dodson raised a company of militia in Penn Township, Northampton County, Pa., of which he was commissioned as captain, May 22nd, 1775. (Penna. Archives, 2nd Series, Vol. XIV. Page 555.) His company became part of the famous "Pennsylvania Line," in which he served during the war, and it is thought until after the winter at Valley Forge. About 1780 he removed from Northampton County to Salem Township (Beach Haven), Luzerne County, Pa., and by warrant took up two hundred acres of land, fronting on the Susquehanna River. There he built his home of hewn logs from the forest, and began to farm anew.

Among his first troubles incident to his new home were those of disputed boundaries and claims between the Connecticut and Pennsylvania settlers, which were finally settled by the Colonial Assembly surveying and defining boundaries and giving each landholder a river frontage of a thousand feet, and so running back from the same.

Indian raids were frequent, and their depredations were severe. In one of these raids their oldest son, John, of about eighteen years, was killed. He was buried on the Beach Haven farm, near the river.

In the late fall of 1784, in another Indian incursion, they were driven from their home and their house was burned, with all its contents, family records, deeds and papers. The father was breaking up some new ground for spring planting, some distance from the house. The mother noticed a skulking Indian near. She at once sent one of the young children to warn the father. He sent the child back to have the mother send the children one by one to the spring, as if to get water, and last of all, she herself followed with infant in arms. (Said infant became the grandmother of the author.) Meanwhile the father hid his horses in a thicket of bushes, joined them and hastened to their boat at the river, wherein to make their escape. When about the middle of the river they saw their home in flames, the Indians dancing around it, and hurling feather beds in the air. They crossed to Wapwallopen, where they found such shelter as best they could, and with but their scanty clothing for a protection, passed the night.

In the morning the father ventured back, found his horses, and recrossing the river with them, began their refuge journey through the Wapwallopen Gap, and over the mountains to relatives and friends in Northampton County.

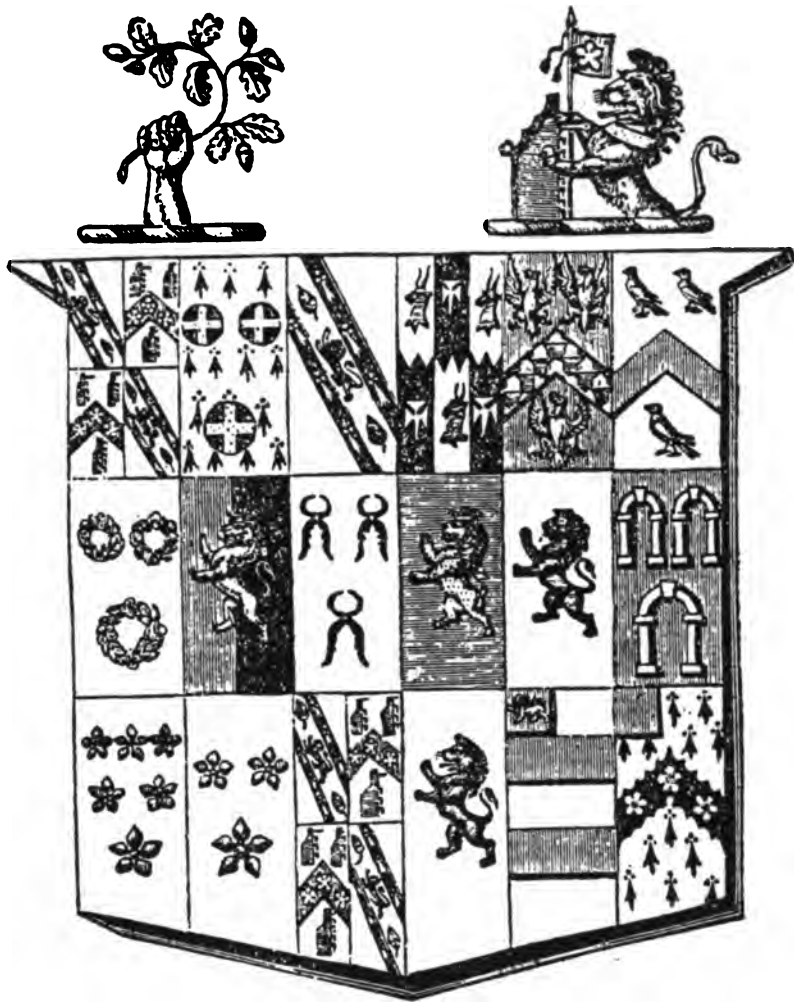

From the hardships and exposure of the war and the recent toil and experience of loss and journey Richard sickened and died in the next year. The mother was left with quite a family of young children. These were compelled to find homes with friends and strangers. The widow's main dependence being her oldest son, Joseph, then about nineteen years of age, who became the practical head of the family, and with whom the mother made her home, surviving her husband until 1815. As soon as they could, when Joseph became of age, they returned to Salem Township and took up their claim. They found other claimants for it, and a dispute between two such for its unlawful possession. The court finally awarded it to one "Lockhard" on condition of his paying the widow Dodson's claim, a large portion of which land is still in the Lockhard possession (Case of Lockhard vs. Kuhn and Kern (Bound Mss. Proprietaries, Pg. 579) July, 1790). Joseph then finally took up a large tract of eight hundred acres in Union Township, Luzerne County, about 1796, having then married.

RHODES ARMS

DODSON GENEALOGY.

SKETCH.

Joseph Dodson was truly a hardy pioneer. His large purchase of eight hundred acres of land, virgin forest, indicates this, on which he erected homes and a large saw mill of primitive construction. He engaged largely in lumbering, clearing farms, one each in time for his six sons. He did much for the advancement of agriculture and education. He built a school house on his own land for the benefit of his own and neighbors' children, and which as well as his own house, was frequently used as a place of worship by the itinerant minister. He served his township and county well and honorably in many local offices and interests. He was a conscientious Christian, a member of the Methodist Church. His name was a household word of praise and esteem for long years after his demise, and handed down through a long line of descendants, a number of whom are still living on lands of the early possession. His widow was the daughter of Joshua Bennett, one of the colony of Connecticut settlers in Luzerne County, Pa., and who survived him until 1856, in the 84th year of her age.

SKETCH.

Dr. Elisha B. Dodson was born in Luzerne County, Pa. He left his home in early manhood to prosecute his studies and finish his education, which he did at Yale College. He studied medicine in New York City as a pupil under Dr. Physic, a famous physician of his day, graduating finally in New York.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

He practiced successfully in Bristol, Pa., Philadelphia, Cumberland County, Pa., and Reading. He was a fine scholar and a cultured and polished gentleman of the "old school." He died in Philadelphia in 1860 just previous to the Civil War, whose ominous threatenings were a subject of deep concern to him. His son, Wilson P. Dodson, was a soldier in the Civil War, Co. D, 3rd Pennsylvania Cavalry, Col. Averill. Sergeant July 23rd, 1861. Promoted to Quartermaster Sergeant March 18th, 1862. Promoted to Battalion Quartermaster non-commissioned staff. Mustered out August 24, 1864.

New Orleans, where he practiced for fifty years. He was celebrated for his success in the treatment of yellow fever. He acquired quite a large fortune, investing it mostly in real estate and large bodies of land in Texas. He was an inventor of numerous surgical appliances, and also the originator of many valuable specifics in his large experience of the special diseases of the Southern climate. In his advanced age he returned to Philadelphia and from an accidental fall on the stairs of his residence, his death was hastened in the ninety-fourth year of his life.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

SKETCH.

Joseph Bennett Dodson, the father of this large family, by inheritance and purchase of others' claims, became the owner of the old homestead and much of the land of his father's original purchase. He was a successful farmer and business man, influential in his community, both in church and local interests. A member of the Methodist Church. He died in a ripe old age honored and beloved by a numerous line of descendants, and respected in the community among whom he dwelt.

SKETCH.

Dr. Ellis M. Santee, of Cortland, New York, by most laudable energy and perseverance, has become one of the most prominent men in his profession in the State, and not only in his particular profession, but in varied interests of general and practical advantage. Educated in the common schools and in the New Columbus Academy of Luzerne County, Pa., he at once began his life's career as a teacher and taught the school at Muhlenburg in the same county, for two years, 1879 and 1880. He next learned photography and carried on this business in Cortland, N. Y., until 1887. Then came the change in his life that has placed him high in a sphere of usefulness to his State and community. He began the study of medicine, took two courses of lectures at the Hahnemann College, Philadelphia, and then a finishing and graduating course in the Homeopathic College of Missouri. In 1890 he was elected resident physician of Hahnemann Hospital, Rochester, N. Y., for one year. In 1891 he began practicing medicine in Cortland, N. Y. Has been Lecturer on Obstetrics since 1894, in the Cortland Hospital Training School for Nurses. Other interests outside of medicine have claimed his successful attention. A stock farm of high class cattle, and especially devoted to the production and handling of sanitary milk, in which also as Health Commissioner he is considered an expert. In this special line, under the auspices of the agricultural and educational departments of the State, since 1900, he is engaged in annual lecture tours upon sanitary matters in general, as well as State expert as to the production and care of sanitary milk. As representative expert of the State he has had charge of the diagnosis, care and quarantine of smallpox cases and other epidemics of his section, and also the examination and passing of candidates for admission to the State Sanitarium in the Adirondacks, N. Y., for incipient tuberculosis. Good roads and side paths have also received his active leadership, as chairman of committees and compiler of road and tour books and road maps of the State. He is a frequent contributor to medical, sanitary and agricultural publications, and has published a "Repertory of Convulsions," and also a genealogy of the Santee family. He also delivers a course of lectures each year at Cornell University. He served seven years in the National Guard of his State, rising from a private to the command of the 45th Regiment, and is now a supernumerary officer. Such an active life can leave few, if any, idle hours, and cannot fail to win deserved recognition and appreciation throughout his section of his adopted State.

SKETCH.

Hugh Thompson was born of Scotch-Irish parentage, Paul and Ann Geddes Thompson, who came to this country in 1792, landing at Philadelphia when the subject of this sketch was but a lad of fifteen years. They were met in Philadelphia by Geddes relatives and conveyed in wagons to their home in Gettysburg, so named from their original Scotch name, but now spelled Gettys. The Thompson family settled first for a brief period at Dillsburg, York County, Pa., a small village near Gettysburg. They finally removed to Berwick, Pa., where Hugh married, built his home, reared his family and spent his remaining days. He was a man of sturdy character, firm in his opinions of right, and a devoted Christian, ever ready with an answer, oftentimes witty, but with an applicable meaning that never failed to make an impression to be remembered. His and never in a flippant manner, as is so often done without apt quotations of Scripture, in which he was thoroughly versed, were ever used to clinch a moral argument or lesson for good regard to their sacredness. He passed to his rest full of years, strong in faith and mind unimpaired.

SKETCH.

Rev. Oliver Ege was born at Boiling Springs, Cumberland County, Pa., December 11th, 1802, and died in Mechanicsburg, in the same county, and only about ten miles from the place of his birth, in the 88th year of his age, and the sixty-second of his ministry. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in Harrisburg, in 1819. Between the dates given was comprehended a life as useful and honored as it was extended. Not very long after his entering upon a religious life, thoughts touching the Christian ministry crystallized into convictions. Feeling the need of better literary advantages he made use of his savings to procure the same. He then became a student in the home of Dr. Asa Herring, of Mechanicsburg, who gave instruction to a limited number of students, whom he thus prepared for the study of medicine or for entrance into college. He pursued his studies there for two years, but during this time he frequently exercised his gifts, holding prayer and exhortation meetings in the town and vicinity, having been licensed therefor on March 23rd, 1825. In consequence thereof, about two years later, he was recommended for admission into the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Two years of probationary trial having elapsed, on March 22, 1829, he was ordained "Deacon" in Baltimore, by Bishop Robert Roberts, and two years later, March 20, 1831, was ordained "Elder" by Bishop Elijah Hedding. On February 7th, 1833, he was united in marriage to Susannah P. Thompson, daughter of Hugh and Ann Dodson Thompson, of Berwick, Pa. She was indeed a thorough helpmeet to him, through all his years of active labor, in the many homes in his ministry among strangers, as their lot was so frequently cast. Two sons and two daughters were born of this union. The home life of husband and wife, with their children, was one of love and tenderness, and with the blessedness of religious influence and example was such as to bring forth the fruit of good living, and the exemplification of the true Christian home. And so with their intercourse with those among whom their lot was so frequently cast. Uniform kindness of heart ever characterized it, and there was a road to their hearts not hard to find. The services he rendered the church of his choice, as an itinerant minister, can scarcely be estimated or enumerated in a brief sketch, but in those pioneer days they were truly heroic. His first charge embraced a circuit of about six hundred miles, territory now forming a conference. The deprivations endured, the dangers incurred, and expedients resorted to in the face of unforeseen difficulties, oftentimes of storm and flood, in order to meet appointments, can scarcely be realized in these days of ease and comfort. His early ministry was one in which he preached in groves, private houses, barns, and seldom in houses consecrated to the worship of God. A scattered flock, few members, and scarcity of money, made the building of church edifices well-nigh impossible. For thirty-three years of active itineracy he worked faithfully for God and man. He was a splendid type of that class of godly men who "for the joy that was set before them endured the cross, despised the shame, gloried in tribulation, and with heroic perseverance toiled on, until they saw the pleasure of the Lord prospering in their hands. In 1860 Rev. Oliver Ege retired from his active ministry. He then embarked with his adult sons in the management of the Cumberland Institute for Boys and Young Men. In this new field there was still ample scope for the exercise of his godly life and example, and which in exhortation and pious counsel he never lost an opportunity for good. Until disabled by age and disease in the few last years of his life he was very frequently called upon to exercise his ministerial gifts.

As a private citizen he clearly understood and appreciated his duty and privilege, and with fidelity and spirit discharged every obligation devolving upon him. He passed away full of years with duty all and fully done, to the eternal rest fully deserved and faithfully won. His devoted wife survived him for a few years more, and their mortal remains now rest side by side in the cemetery at Danville, Pa.

SUPPLEMENTARY SKETCH.

Rev. Thompson P. Ege, his oldest son, and the compiler and publisher of this family history, was born at the home of his grandfather in Berwick, Pa., in 1835. He graduated at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., in 1855, and at once began his active career in life as a teacher. In 1860, he became the principal of Cumberland Valley Institute in Mechanicsburg, Pa., a boarding school for boys. He was associated in this work by his father and brother. In 1865 he retired from the Institute to accept the presidency of Irving Female College in the same town, his father and brother remaining in the boys' school. In 1883 he resigned the presidency of the College and entered the ministry of the Episcopal Church, in which he is still actively engaged and now (1907) rector of the St. Paul Memorial Church, Oaks, Pa. In 1864, he married Sarah Cooper Dodson, whose father was first cousin of his mother, the marriage being solemnized by Rev. Oliver Ege, his father.

A. H. Ege was a prominent and successful educator for many years. He is an accomplished scholar and a fine writer, contributing many articles to the press. He has recently published a descriptive volume of the Knights Templar Pilgrimage of 1904 to San Francisco, with graphic word pictures of scenes and journeyings along the Pacific from San Francisco southward and northward.

SKETCH.

Dr. Samuel Yorks Thompson, son of John and Hannah Yorks Thompson, was born in Danville, Penna. He was educated in the schools of his native town and at the Cumberland Valley Institute., Mechanicsburg, Pa. He early evinced a desire and aptitude for the study of medicine, and while a student at the Institute, supplemented his studies there by reading in the office and under the direction of Dr. P. H. Long. He graduated in medicine in New York City and immediately began the practice of his profession in Danville, where he achieved great success and a reputation which extended far and wide throughout that portion of the State, and in consequence thereof he was almost constantly called in consultation, and frequently from fifty to a hundred miles distant. He was also a public-spirited citizen of his town and county. He was twice elected Associate Judge of his county and was filling his second term at the time of his death, which occurred suddenly in his office while writing a prescription for a patient then present. He died from heart failure brought on by overwork and a self-sacrificing spirit that knew no rest nor suffered any call for help to pass unheeded. He married Anna E. Ege, whose mother was a first cousin of his father.

SKETCH.

Dr. J. M. Stoever was a successful druggist and business man. At the beginning of the Civil War, while a student of pharmacy and employed in a drug store in Philadelphia, he enlisted in the 56th Regiment, Pa. Vol. Infantry. Because of his knowledge of medicine he was detailed much of the time as hospital steward. During the battle of Gettysburg he was in the ranks when his regiment delivered the first infantry fire at the beginning of that famous battle on the first day. In retreating through the town he was captured by the enemy, but escaped and was recaptured. He soon made a second escape. From his knowledge of the town through frequent visits to an uncle, Rev. M. L. Stoever, who was a professor in the Lutheran Seminary there, he was able to find his way to a rear entrance and stairway to the attic of the Court House, where he remained concealed until the battle was over. The lower floors were used as hospitals by the Confederates while he was thus in hiding. After the battle he rejoined his regiment and remained until the close of the war. At the time of his decease he was the proprietor of a very successful pharmacy in the Broad Street Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Frank M. Stoever, his oldest son, is a graduate in ship architecture, both of the Roche and Cramp ship yards. He has been in the U. S. Government employ for a number of years, and is now in the Navy Department in Washington, D. C.

Henry Von Hoff Stoever, second son, is a graduate physician and pharmacist, and was associated with his father and now successor to him in the Broad Street Station Pharmacy.

SKETCH.

Putnam C. Wadsworth is a son of Epaphras and Charlotte Stevens Wadsworth. His father was one of the early Connecticut settlers in Luzerne County. He was a lay preacher, baptized, married and buried many of the people in his section of the county. Putnam C. has been one of the most useful men of his community, a practical surveyor, a justice of the peace and writer of legal papers, deeds, wills and agreements for the people of his region. He is still living and has now rounded out his eighty-third year. He is a direct descendant of the same ancestry as the poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

A COLLATERAL LINE—STOEVER.

SKETCH.

The history and ancestry of the Stoever family of early Colonial days is here worthy of record.

In Rupp's collection of 30,000 names of German emigrants arriving in this country, and among those who arrived September 11th, 1728, on the ship "James Goodwill," David Crockett, master, from Rotterdam, are the names of John Casper Stoever, Sr., Missionaire, and John Casper, Jr., a Student of Theology.

John Casper Stoever, Sr., was a native of Frankenburg, in Hesse, Germany, and his wife, Gertrandt (family name not given) born in Amt. (or village) Solingen. He labored as a Lutheran missionary in Spottsylvania, Virginia. In 1737 he went to Europe to raise means for the building of a church and the extetnsion of his work, and died on shipboard on the return voyage to this country.

John Caspar, Jr., was born December 21st, 1707 in Suedorff, in Solingen Amt., Duchy Berg, in Unter Pfaltz. As a licensed student of theology he preached on shipboard and also until he was ordained in Philadelphia, April 8, 1733, by Rev. Christian Shultz. He labored in the eastern counties of Pennsylvania, with occasional calls to Virginia. A record of his baptisms and marriages, written in German, was faithfully kept during all the years of his active ministry. This has been recently translated by Rev. F. J. F. Shantz, of Myerstown, Pa. This record contains the baptisms of all his children, and a number of his grandchildren. Also the marriage of several of his children. On one of his visitations to Chester County, in December, 1731, he baptized three children of Thomas Dodson, among them Richard Dodson, the great-grandfather of the wife of Dr. J. M. Stoever, previously mentioned in the Dodson genealogy, and also at reference No. 2498 following.

Note 1.—The above baptism and sponsor records are taken from the translated "Record Book" of John Caspar Stoever, 2nd, before mentioned.

Note 2.—In the will of John Caspar Stoever, 2nd, was this bequest to his son, John Frederick, viz., "the organ bought from Stiegel."

This was the celebrated Baron William Henry Von Stiegel, a native of Manheim, Germany, and the founder of Manheim, Lancaster County, Pa., in whose honor the "Red Rose Ceremony" is celebrated there annually in June. This is also in accordance with the payment of a Red Rose, as stipulated in a deed for land and church built thereon, when demanded by a descendant. Said Baron Stiegel's wife was the sister of the great-great-grandmother of the author of this genealogy. on the paternal side.

THOMAS DODSON, 2ND, LINE.

(16) 7. Thomas Dodson, son of Thomas and Mary Prigg Dodson, was born in 1732, in Chester County, Pa. After reaching manhood and probable marriage he settled for a time in what is now Lehigh County, and finally, in the latter part of 1700, settled in the western part of the State on a farm near Warrior's Mark, in Huntingdon County. Of his wife and family no data has been obtained except the name and descendants of one son, Richard, as follows:

1. Richard Dodson, 7Thomas, 1Thomas, 1John, Daniel I. Richard was born in Chester County in 1762, and married there in 1793, Mary Dunlapp.

2600 1. Richard Dodson, b. 1762; m. 1793; d. 1843.

2601 Mary Dunlapp, b. 1773.

2602 G VI: 1. Eleanor Dodson, b. 1794.

2603 2. Thomas, 3rd, b. 1796.

2604 3. Dr. William, b. 1798.

2605 4. Sarah Alice, b. 1805.

2606 5. Mary Ann, b. 1809.

2607 6. Richard, 2nd, b. 5, 20, 1811.

2608 7. Eliza, b. 1816.

Note.—Richard Dodson settled on a farm near Smicksburg, Indiana County, Pa., no doubt having accompanied his father to this portion of the State, and thus settling near him in an adjoining county. The Smicksburg farm has remained in the possession of his descendants, the last male descendant being Homer C. Dodson, who died in 1905.

Of the above named children of Richard no information has been obtained from his descendants, either of Eleanor or Thomas, 3rd, except that Thomas emigrated to Ohio in early manhood. Sarah Alice is said to have married a Riddle, and that she died soon after marriage and left no issue.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

SKETCH.

SAMUEL AND ELIZABETH RHODES DODSON LINE.

11. Samuel Dodson was the youngest son of Thomas and Mary Prigg Dodson, of Chester County, Pa. After his marriage he removed to Northampton County, in a portion of what is now Lehigh County. He took up land on the Mahoning Creek. He died there at rather an early age in comparison with that of his older brothers. He married Elizabeth Rhodes, daughter of John and Judith Rhodes, who was the sister of Susannah Rhodes, the wife of Richard Dodson, his older brother. Their children were therefore double first cousins. The Lehigh County home of Samuel was in the vicinity of the Moravian settlements, with whom they became religiously identified, though both the Dodson and Rhodes families were originally of Quaker stock.

The following extracts from the Church Book of the Moravian congregation are of much interest:

"Elizabeth Rhodes, wife of Samuel Dodson, born December 31, 1744. O. S.—was baptized into the death of Jesus Christ October 6th, 1773, by Brother Edward Thorp."

"Wednesday, October 6th, 1774, was through baptism received into the congregation upon her sick bed, a married woman, Elizabeth Rhodes, wife of Samuel Dodson.

Note.—Observe here that a year had elapsed from the date of baptism and the reception into the congregation, which custom was probably a rule of the Moravian Church government.

"Monday, April 17th, 1786, were received into the Society, the single woman, Abigail Dodson, and the 'great girls' Rebecca Weiss and Elizabeth Rhodes Dodson."

Note.—The Abigail Dodson thus mentioned was the Indian captive, who after her rescue was placed in the care of the Moravians for her education, whereby she became identified with them. The "great girl" Elizabeth was living in 1867 at the age of 84, by the name of Betsy Van Horn, widow of Isaac Van Horn, in Huntington Township, Luzerne County, Penna.

Samuel Dodson and Richard, and some of the Rhodes relatives, owned adjoining lands in Penn Township, Northampton County, a map of which lands is in the possession of the author. After the death of Samuel his children followed their uncles to Luzerne County and permanently settled there, and from them also has issued a long line of worthy descendants, whose tabulated history will follow in regular line of descent and various family alliances.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

SKETCH.

Simeon P. Vallerchamp was the son of Azima, a nobleman of rank and influence in the royal court of France. When Simeon was young they resided in Paris, where he was finely educated in the demands of the day and times, especially in languages and literature, being able to read and write in seven languages. He came to America with General Lafayette and took part in the War of the Revolution, and was on the staff of Lafayette. He was wounded at the battle of Monmouth and carried balls in his body as long as he lived, they finally causing his death very suddenly. After the war he returned to Paris and remained two years. On his return to this country his ship encountered a British warship, and in the attack, when he found his ship would be lost, he jumped overboard and swam ashore, losing his all, but found refuge and aid. He returned to this country soon after.

He married, first Janica Bertrand, daughter of General Bertrand, who then lived near Philadelphia. By this union he had several children. His second wife was Hannah Dodson, one child being the result of this union, Rev. Azima Vallerchamp, who was twenty years of age when his father died. He inherited a fine mind, and early became an earnest student and mastered several languages. He taught school for some years. After his marriage he embarked in the business of merchandizing, keeping for a time a general store. But this was not in accord with the natural bent of his mind. He then studied dentistry, in which he was very successful for many years, adding to this a very useful career as a lay minister in both the Methodist and Evangelical churches. He continued his literary culture through life, accumulating a fine library. He founded Sunday schools, and otherwise encouraged and aided in forming libraries for the general education, mental culture and taste among the young. He was of genial and winning disposition, always cheerful and kind, and as a lecturer and preacher was most earnest and eloquent. An attack of malaria in connection with chronic heart disease, after a very brief illness, ended his useful career when in the prime of life, aged forty-nine years. His wife was of Quaker stock, a descendant of the Penningtons, of Philadelphia, and, through them, of Wm. Penn.

The following little poem was written by Mrs. Vallerchamp, his widow, when she was eighty years of age, and is published by request of a daughter:

"WATCHING FOR THE MORNING."

The morning light is dawning,
The Day Star from on high
Shines bright along my pathway
While passing to the sky.
The fields of endless pleasure
By faith I now explore,
And see the palm trees waving
On that far distant shore.

The streets of that bright city
Are richly paved with gold;
The Tree of Life is blooming,
Its beauties are untold.
The fountain's ever flowing
From underneath the throne;
Those joys were bought so dearly
Through Jesus' blood alone.

He saves me; oh! he saves me;
His dying love's so true;
In every hour of danger
He leads me safely through.
Oh, will He count me worthy,
When worlds on worlds shall meet,
To cast my crown before Him,
And worship at His feet.

We feast upon a Saviour's love
In fellowship so sweet;
The height and depth we ne'er shall know
Till 'round His Throne we meet.

COLLATERAL SKETCH.

Charles Philip Swengle. The Swengle family are direct descendants of the Zwinglis of Switzerland, of which Huldreich Zwingli, the great Swiss reformer, was one. Two members of that family settled in Germany. Three of their descendants, brothers, John Nicholas, Michael and George Swengle, December 3rd, 1740, embarked for America on the ship "Samuel," of which Hugh Percy was captain. Michael and George settled in Berks County, Pa., and John Nicholas nearer Philadelphia. He was driven from his home by the Indians and finally settled near Selinsgrove, Pa., in 1775.

A slight change of spelling from the original gives the name as written above.

John Swengle, born 3, 24, 1805, (son of Michael, born 7, 19, 1774, and Esther Hassinger Swengle, born 5, 28, 1777), married Sarah Miller, b. 11, 21, 1810. John Swengle died 11, 28, 1875, and Sarah, 10, 8, 1841.

SKETCH.

Abigail Dodson, second child of Samuel and Elizabeth Rhodes Dodson, was captured by the Indians at Gilbert's Mill on the Mahoning Creek, Lehigh County, Pa., April 29, 1780. The Gilbert and Pearl families, with some others, in all fifteen persons, were taken captives at the same time. Abigail's family lived a short distance up the Mahoning Creek from the mill. She was sent to the mill very early in the morning soon after daylight on horseback. She was then nearly thirteen years of age. The first person to greet her on arriving there was an Indian, who came out of the house and at once commanded her to dismount. She soon perceived that all the people living near were either captives or dead, and none left to assist her to escape. Soon another Indian came with his tomahawk held threateningly before her, while the first one took her from the saddle and bound her to prevent escape. They loaded the horse with goods taken from the house, which was soon fired, as was also the mill and other outbuildings.

The families captured were Quakers, and non-resistants in principle, and for this reason probably their lives were spared. Having seized all the horses near, the Indians were enabled to carry off clothing and provisions for their journey. They started at once for the Susquehanna River, up which by Indian paths, avoiding settled portions, they hastened. They reached the river at or near Shickshinny, crossed over, passed through and burned the buildings and saw mills there from which the Austin family had been driven by the Indians two years previous. And thence by a well known Indian path some distance back of the river they made their way to the Genesee Valley. They remained there three years. During the period of her captivity Abigail lived with five different tribes and learned their languages. The tribe she was last with moved from the Genesee Valley to Grand River in Canada. The sufferings and hardships endured during the first years of her captivity were very severe sometimes nearly starved, at one time being without food for three days. This told on her future life, becoming a cripple from rheumatism because of exposure. She was finally sold to an Indian or half-breed of another nation, named De Goyer, with whom she fared much better. Her new master had corn fields, orchards and cattle. In the summer the cattle were taken to pasture land near Niagara Falls, where Abigail was sent to take care of them. Here she was betrothed in 1785 by her adopted parents to a young Indian, but she was fortunate enough to meet some fur traders, to whom she was able to make known her name and that of her parents, and begged them to try and let her friends know and rescue her. This they faithfully performed. Thomas Dodson, who was either her uncle or cousin, undertook the mission of her release, and after danger and difficulty succeeded in finding her. De Goyer claimed her as his purchased property and refused to give her up, finally demanding a ransom in gold, but finally compromised by accepting the horse, saddle and bridle which was provided for her journey home. So with one horse for both, which was a borrowed one, after a captivity of over five years, in her Indian costume, she started with her rescuer and faithful guide to home and friends. They reached the Susquehanna River at Towanda. There they disposed of or returned the horse, procured a boat and paddled down the river to Shick-shinny, and there again borrowed a horse and passed over the mountains to their home in the Mahoning Valley, reaching it in December, 1785, after an absence of five years and eight months. She was then eighteen years of age and was placed for some time in the Moravian schools at Bethlehem. Monday, April 17th, 1786, she was received into the Moravian Society. She with the other children, after the father's death, settled in Luzerne County, Pa. She married Peter Brink and was respected and beloved by all who knew her. She lived to a ripe old age, esteemed for her amiability and Christian graces.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

SKETCH.

John Dodson, the oldest living son of Samuel and Elizabeth Rhodes Dodson, after the death of his father, became practically the head and representative of this branch of the family line. At the age of twenty-one he left the place of his birth, in the Mahoning Valley, Penn Township, Northampton County, and moved to Huntington Township, Luzerne County, where he purchased and settled upon a farm which he continued to occupy during his long life, and which is still in possession of his descendants. In 1797 he married the daughter of Stephen Harrison, who had recently emigrated to this section of Luzerne, from Canaan Litchfield County, Connecticut. Of this union were born eleven children. His wife, Clarissa, died in 1820, eight of the eleven children surviving her. He soon after married Sophronia Monroe, daughter of Nathan Monroe, a native of the same State and county as his first wife. She dying in 1841, left him nine children.

He was an active and industrious man, full of energy and good judgment, and greatly valued and admired by his neighbors, friends and acquaintances for his sterling worth and integrity. He took especial interest in public affairs and in promoting the welfare of the community among whom he dwelt, aiding greatly in securing and maintaining both public and private schools, in the opening, extension and improvement of public roads, and in the encouragement of local industries.

For many years he held the office of justice of the peace by the appointment of several Governors of the State, irrespective of parties. After the office became elective, by almost unanimous choice of the citizens of the township he continued to serve them, until advancing years made it necessary to decline further service. In politics he was an ardent "old line Whig," until the organization of the Republican party, when he espoused its principles and its cause.

His wise counsel and advice were eagerly sought by his neighbors and acquaintances, and freely given. His hospitality was proverbial, while his unbounded charity to the poor and unfortunate was limited only by his means. No applicant left his presence without substantial assistance. Withal he was a perfect specimen of the gentleman of the "old school," and was known by his stately mien, dignified appearance and neatness of person, as "Gentleman John."

This sketch is largely taken from an article by his son, Charles M. Dodson, of Bethlehem.

SKETCH.

Dr. John N. Weston was born in Norwich, Connecticut. He came to Towanda in the winter of 1813-14, but only remained until the following spring, teaching the art of penmanship meanwhile. He studied medicine afterwards and began practicing in Huntington Township, Luzerne County, where he married in 1822, Nancy Dodson, daughter of John Dodson and Clarissa Harrison. In 1823 he returned with his wife to Towanda, where he began his professional career, and made it his home for the remainder of his busy life. He soon acquired an extensive practice and a large circle of friends which his amenity of manners in all his personal and professional intercourse was well calculated to increase. Instead of coldly performing his professional duties, it was really a work of love for him to alleviate the ills of others. He spared neither health nor strength, nor avoided cold, or rain or storm when a suffering patient needed his aid. In this way he early impaired his health, and by slow degrees undermined his constitution, which made him during the last years of his life subject to frequent attacks of illness.

His active professional life did not prevent his taking a deep interest in everything devised for the good of the community. He spent the last years of his life in a house which he built, which is still standing and occupied, in a suburban village named "Weston" in his honor. Dr. Weston was one of the charter members of Christ Episcopal Church Vestry, Towanda, and a faithful member of the same through his life. His wife, Nancy Dodson Weston, who survived him for forty years, was also a devoted member of the same church. Soon after marriage she went with her husband to their new home in Towanda. Here she spent her happy life and reared her family of seven children, four of whom survived her. She was a most kind and devoted mother, gentle and tender-hearted, and beloved not only by her family and relatives, but by all who knew her. Her memory was remarkable, and she would often recall and relate events that happened in her early childhood, and most interestingly of the encounters of the early settlers with the Indians. Poetry learned in her youth she readily repeated, and upon the current events of the day she was well informed. Reading was a great pleasure, until the last two years of her life, when her eyesight failed and then she depended on others to read to her. The last two winters of her life she spent in her Towanda home, built by her husband sixty years before. But she loved best her country home in the summer, in the Weston village, and to do so again she had returned there but two weeks before her death. She had longed to see the budding trees and flowers, but she was suddenly stricken with pneumonia which her advanced age and failing strength was not able to withstand. Through it all her mind was clear and bright and her faith unmoved. She was followed to her last earthly resting place by four generations, brothers, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. She was laid by the side of her husband in Riverside cemetery, Towanda, where the comforting burial service of her church was read by Rev. Mr. Wright, her pastor. This tribute to her memory was written by a granddaughter, Mrs. Macfarland.

SKETCH.

Dr. Henry Weston, the son of Dr. John Norris and Nancy (nee Dodson) his wife, was born at Towanda, Pa., December 29th, 1835. His father was the leading physician of the vicinity and was also active in politics, serving his county in official positions. In the death of Dr. Henry Weston there passed one to whose fertile mind the dentistry of the past thirty years was not a little indebted for devices and preparations which simplify and facilitate practice. A very skillful dentist, he knew the points of difficulty and applied his mind to making them easy for others. Personally a modest, rather diffident man, he was averse to notoriety, but his works spoke for him in no uncertain terms, and his name through its connection with practical appliances of which he was a successful inventor, is a "household word" in the history of dentistry. He was a resourceful practitioner of great skill and master of both branches of practice. He brought to the operative practice a sympathetic nature, a gentleness of manipulation and a delicacy of touch which won for him many clients in his profession. He possessed the genius of invention, and in attaining an end was patient, persistent, untiring. No matter how great the work, he never wearied until it was brought to a successful issue.

He began the study of dentistry in Baltimore. He began his independent practice at Harper's Ferry, Va., remaining there until the time of the John Brown raids in 1859. He then went West for a short time, but returned to his native town, where he practiced for several years, but finally settled in Philadelphia, where he combined practice and invention in several lines. In the promotion of one of these inventions he spent some years in England.

In character and life he was a man of kindly disposition, generous and helpful, giving freely of his stores of practical knowledge, and delighting to aid students and young practitioners over difficult problems. He was a devoted husband and fond father, and his home life was consequently ideal. His courage and cheerfulness never deserted him, even 'mid the long and painful illness of over a year preceding his death in July, 1906.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

Note.—Dr. Thomas F. Madill was the son of Dr. Alexander Madill, who was born in Scotland, educated in Edinboro University; came to America in 1800; settled first in Adams County, Pa., and later in Wysox, Bradford County. A son, Henry J., born in Adams County, came with him to Bradford County, became a lawyer, was also in Civil War, 1861-65, major of 6th Regiment Penna. Reserves, and later was colonel 141st Regt., Pa. V. I.; served as County Recorder, and in State Legislature in 1879. Dr. Thomas became a distinguished physician and surgeon, and practiced his profession for many years in Bradford County.

SKETCH.

Dennison D. LaBar—Born in Carbon County, Penna.; removed with parents to Berlin, Wisconsin, 1856. War record: Co. A, 10th Regiment, Wis. V. I.; served during entire war; participated in following engagements: Pittsburg Landing, Corinth, siege of Vicksburg, and with Sherman from Atlanta to Savannah. He returned home with shattered health, lived for a short time at Red Wing, Wis., then returned to Berlin, where he died in 1867, leaving a wife and infant son.

The son, George D. La Bar, after death of his father, went with his widowed mother to Zumbrota, Minnesota, where he attended school. After this, when very young, he was employed by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Louis R. R. at Zumbrota Station as agent. He remained in this employ until a position was offered in the First National Bank of Brainard, Minnesota, which he accepted January 13, 1883. He passed through all the bank positions from check collector to president of the same in 1903, which office he now holds. He was also city treasurer for seven years.

SKETCH.

Three of the Dodson brothers of this family line, viz., Weston, Charles and Truman, have been and are very prominent men in Bethlehem, Pa., founding and prosecuting successfully the mining and shipping of coal. Weston started the coal business in the year 1857, and conducted the same alone until 1867. From that date the firm of Weston Dodson & Brother was organized by the joining of Charles M. Dodson, and was continued until 1871. At this time, by the admission of Truman M. Dodson, the business was reorganized as Weston Dodson & Company. August 1st, 1902. by State charter, "Weston Dodson & Company, Incorporated," was organized and continued the business, the incorporators being Truman M. Dodson, Charles M. Dodson, and the estate of Weston Dodson, deceased. The firm owns and operates several mines. both bituminous and anthracite, in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and are large shippers of the products thereof. Offices in Bethlehem, New York and Philadelphia.

SKETCH.

Isaac Taylor Dodson began a very active and energetic life when very young. His first prominent notice came from the fact of his taking and finishing a contract for the building of a bridge across the Susquehanna River at Berwick, Pa., when but eighteen years of age. This was considered at the time a most wonderful achievement for a man of his years, and it was the starting point of his life. Soon after this he went to Mauch Chunk and entered the employ of Erskine Hazzard, who was then the general manager of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, which position he filled acceptably for a number of years. After this he embarked in the business of contracting, in which he was very successful. August 3d, 1835, he was commissioned by Governor John Andrew Shultz as Colonel of the 128th Regiment of the militia of the State, to which position he was re-elected for several years. November 10th, 1851, he was elected Associate Judge of Carbon County, Pa., of the Court of Common Pleas, and his commission was signed by Governor Wm. H. Johnson on the above date. Later on he was re-elected for another term. He was a most active and influential citizen and highly esteemed in the community in which he had his home, for his integrity and worth.

COLLATERAL SKETCH—FRANKLIN LINE.

This family line is a very ancient one, mention of which in England is made as early as 1412 by Sir John Fortescue, as follows: "That wealthy freeholders were commonly called Franklins." Chaucer and Spencer, early Anglo-Saxon writers, both speak of "a country gentleman" as "a Franklin." It has also been thought to have come from France—from the "Franks," or probably from a free line, a line free from the vassalage common in days of old, and hence Frankline, adopted as a surname.

The Franklins in this country, who are largely allied by marriage with the Dodsons, claim a relationship with Dr. Benjamin Franklin, the philosopher and statesman.

The ancestry of the Franklins dates back to 1555, by records preserved in the registers of marriages and burials, in the parish of Ecton, Northamptonshire, England. Thomas, the grandfather of Benjamin, was born in Ecton in 1598. He left four sons, who grew to manhood, Thomas, John, Benjamin and Josiah.

Josiah married young, and with his wife and three children came to New England in 1685, four other children being born in this country by this first marriage. Josiah married as his second wife Abiah Folger, daughter of Peter Folger, an early New England settler. By this union ten children were born, Dr. Benjamin being the youngest son. He states that he found in these early records in Ecton parish that he was the youngest son of the youngest son for five generations. Of these children Benjamin mentions the names of only two brothers, James and John.

His uncle, Benjamin, next older than his father, came also to New England and settled in Boston, who was his godfather, and for whom he was named.

Dr. Benjamin was born in Boston, January 6th, 1706; died in Philadelphia, April 17th, 1790. His uncle Benjamin died in Boston in 1728. He lived to a great age, but left one son, Samuel, the only survivor of ten children. This son, Samuel, had an only child, a son, who left no son to carry down the Franklin name.

Dr. Benjamin had two sons, William and Francis Folger, who died in childhood. Dr. Benjamin, while in England in 1771, addressed his autobiography to this son, William, as Governor of New Jersey. William had one son, William Temple Franklin, who died without issue. His daughter, Sarah, the only one mentioned in his history, married Richard Bache in 1767, leaving numerous descendants.

A footnote to a history of Dr. Benjamin Franklin, published in 1855, states "that there was not living a single male descendant of Dr. Benjamin's grandfather Thomas who bears the name of Franklin." This statement must be an error, from the fact that there is a large line of Franklins whose ancestor settled in Luzerne County, Pa., with the Connecticut settlers, who formed quite a large colony there in the latter part of 1700, during or immediately after the War of the Revolution, and who have always claimed a near relationship

Col. John Franklin, Sr., came from England to New England about 1750, and settled first at Bramford, Connecticut, and later at Litchfield, from which place he came with a company of Connecticut colonists to Luzerne County in 1791. Colonel John's title may have been gained in the French and Indian wars of 1756 and 1757, which may very likely be proved by investigation.

He claimed to be a first cousin of Dr. Benjamin Franklin, and this tradition is handed down and firmly believed by many living descendants of the name, both male and female. He was over eighty years of age when he came to Luzerne

DODSON GENEALOGY.

County, with his family. He died December 25, 1800. He was thus contemporary in years and time with Dr. Benjamin.

As the descendants of two of Dr. Franklin's uncles are very clearly given, it is not at all improbable that said Colonel John was the son of Dr. Franklin's uncle John.

The children of Col. John and his wife Keziah Pierce are as follows:

1. Susannah. Married Stephen Harrison, Sr., who came to Luzerne from Litchfield, Conn., also in 1791, and was nearly eighty-two years of age at his death. Her daughter, Clarissa, married John Dodson, son of Samuel Dodson. Her brother, Stephen Harrison, married Mary Dodson, sister of John, whom she married.

The Harrisons are of the same descent as the two Harrison Presidents of the United States.

2. Colonel John Harrison, Jr., 3 Samuel, 4 Silas.
2. Colonel John Franklin, Jr., was a soldier in the War of the Revolution.
3. Samuel Franklin married Mary Ransom, daughter of Captain Samuel Ransom, born 1737, who was killed in the Wyoming massacre at Forty Fort in 1778.
4. Silas Franklin.
5. Amos Franklin, b. 11, 13, 1771; d. 11, 4, 1836. Married Margaret Steel, d. 3, 10, 1851. Their son, John Franklin, 3rd, b. 12, 2, 1862; d. 12, 15, 1871. Married Sarah Dodson. See Nos. (3386) and 3593. Daughter of Joseph, brother of John Dodson above mentioned.
6. Jeremiah died in childhood.
7. Abigail Franklin married a son of Darius and Lydia (Woodworth) Callender, early Connecticut settlers, and whose two daughters, Abigail and Cynthia Callender became in turn the first and second wives of another John Dodson, son of James.
8. Lucy Franklin, married an Amesbury.
9. Mary Franklin, married a Fellows.
10. Abiah Franklin, married Isaac Tubbs.

Descendants of all these have married and intermarried with Franklins, Harrisons and Dodsons, to the present time.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

SPECIAL NOTE.

Three sons of John Franklin and Sarah Dodson, viz—

(3598) Stephen Dodson Franklin, (3600) Charles, and (3603) Joseph, were soldiers in the Civil War, as noted in Genealogy Record. After the war Stephen was in the employ of both State and National government as secret service expert, and had much to do in the famous Molly Maguire case in the coal regions.

(3596) Benjamin Franklin, the oldest son, and brother of those just named, was an important aid to the government during the strenuous times of the Civil War. His frequent correspondence with the Hon. Wm. H. Seward, and preserved by his son, shows much of the important service rendered. Colonel Lafayette Baker, in his history of men and events in those war times, mentions him frequently, and paid a glowing tribute to him for his successful work for the citizens of his country and the War Department.

He began his public career of usefulness in the City of Philadelphia in 1854. When the city districts were consolidated he was appointed High Constable by Robert T. Conrad, the first Mayor, which was the highest office in the gift of the Mayor at that time to bestow. He was reappointed by Mayor Henry, and later, under Mayor Morton McMichael, he became chief of the detectives. In 1863 he ran down the masters of Bark AI, who had loaded that vessel with guns and shells at the League Island navy yard, intending to take aboard gunpowder at Wilmington, Del., to be turned over to the Confederates. In 1865 Mr. Franklin was active in raising troops for General Hancock's Corps, collecting the last draft of men made in Philadelphia. He was also in charge of the investigation of the Molly Maguire murder conspiracy; also of the famous Whitaker will case, resulting in the imprisonment for ten years of an attorney and several others. In 1870 he established a detective agency with correspondents and agencies all over this country, Canada, and in fact all over the world. He was successful in many of the most celebrated criminal cases in the country. For thirty years he was special detective agent of the Pennsylvania and Vanderbilt Railroads, and it would require quite a volume to record the events and success of his busy life for his city, State and country. Withal he had hosts of friends, and in all his dealings he was the honorable gentleman, ever striving for the good of his fellow-men and the putting down of evil. He was also a prominent Mason and one of the early members of the Union League.

His brother, Stephen, was also long associated with him in much important work. The agency is still in active and successful work, with his oldest son, Malcolm, as chief, who became associated with his father from 1886.

Two other sons are professional men, Dr. Clinton, a dentist, and Dr. Clarence, a practicing physician.

END OF PENNSYLVANIA BRANCH.

MARYLAND BRANCH A.

() Reference numbers. || No data. (S) Single. (G) Generation.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Researches in the history of the Dodson family in this country from a common English ancestry, began several years ago, and following natural leadings, first from England to New Jersey, thence into Pennsylvania, and next into Maryland, opened up a wide field of interest. During a very substantial progress in the latter State, the writer came in touch with Dr. Charles Marion Dodson, of Baltimore. From that time Dr. Dodson has been mutually interested and a co-laborer in the completion of the Maryland history of the family. He has also contributed the introductory, historical and biographical sketch of the Maryland branch. Following this is the mutually prepared and tabulated line of descent in chronological sequence, family by family, from the head of each to its latest generation.

REV. T. P. EGE.

Introduction.

In the research and preparation of the history of the Maryland Dodson branch, though begun independently by each of the writers whose names are underwritten, the writer of this historical sketch gratefully acknowledges his indebtedness to Rev. T. P. Ege, for a great part of the labor in tracing and tabulating the same, and especially for the location and data of the English ancestry of the Maryland branch and their descendants.

A short time since, after a correspondence of fifteen years, in which mutual exchanges of data were made, we met for the first time. After discussing the results of our labors, it was mutually agreed to incorporate our combined work in one volume, Rev. T. P. Ege assuming the responsibility of the publication, while each receives due recognition therein.

AUTHORITIES OF INFORMATION.

Colonial Records at Annapolis, Md., including administrators' accounts; Maryland Historical Library, Baltimore, St. Peter's Church Parish Records, of Talbot Co., Md., Scarf's History of Maryland, Vol. III, Hemersley's "One Hundred Years' General Register of the United States," Family Documents and Records.

See reference also in Rev. T. P. Ege's introduction to Pennsylvania Branch, to Quaker Records in Knaresborough, Yorkshire, England, and Burlington, New Jersey; Burke's Peerage, Luttrell's Records of Early English State Affairs, Fairbairn's Crests and Coats of Arms, and Pennsylvania Historical Library, Philadelphia.

It is not our purpose to minutely investigate the various branches of the Dodsons in England before their advent into America. From references quoted it is known that the family figured prominently in different periods of English history. Their crests and coats of arms are still preserved, and a descendant of the Maryland family now residing in England has recently been granted with some modification, the arms and crest of his Yorkshire ancestors.

There is no claim that the Dodsons came to this country boasting of a titled ancestry, but came as settlers, and just such persons as were best fitted for the development of the country's crudeness, and fit it for those who were to succeed them. From the different English branches of the family there came representatives at various times in the early settlement of our country, settling in New England, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. Among such were the descendants of the Yorkshire family, of which Thomas Dodson became the founder of the Maryland branch, and while many of his descendants were men of successful enterprise, wealth and prominence, there generally co-existed in the early generations of those who settled and remained on the shore of the Chesapeake Bay, the shipbuilder, the sea captain, and the sailor.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

BRIEF HISTORICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF SIX GENERATIONS OF THE MARYLAND BRANCH OF THE DODSON FAMILY, FROM DANIEL AND SUSANNAH DODSON, OF KNARESBOROUGH, YORKSHIRE, ENGLAND.

(By C. Marion Dodson, M. D., Baltimore, Md.)

Thomas Dodson, in company with an older brother, John, and sister, Mary, and a small colony of Quakers, came to Burlington, New Jersey, in 1677, and although coming under the influence of William Penn, they antedated his coming to Pennsylvania by about five years. John became the head of the Pennsylvania branch. Mary married Richard Boyes in 1683, and remained in New Jersey, where descendants of the name still reside. Thomas, born October 19, 1669, was the seventh child and youngest son of Daniel and Susannah Dodson, of Knaresborough, Yorkshire, England. He married in Burlington, N. J., July 16, 1698, Katharine Savill, daughter of John Savill, of Snape, England. Some time after his marriage Thomas settled in Talbot County, Md., on the eastern shore of the Chesapeake Bay. By this marriage there were said to be three children, John, Robert and Susannah. Burlington records name this John, and a Virginia family record claim this John, as their ancestor from Maryland.

Records of St. Peter's Parish, Talbot County, show that Robert Dodson married Mary Brumell, August 18th, 1727, and that Susannah married William Clark in 1728. An administrator's account of Talbot County, preserved at Annapolis, shows that this Robert Dodson, for his wife, administered upon the estate of her father, Abraham Brumell, April 15th, 1730.

A similar record shows that Robert Hall administered on March 19th, 1745, upon the estate of said Robert Dodson, stating also that among other enterprises Robert was a builder of sailing vessels.

The record of John, oldest son of Thomas, who married Lucy Long, and soon after his marriage settled in Virginia, has been traced by Rev. T. P. Ege, and will follow the tabulated genealogical descent of Robert and Mary Brumell Dodson.

The only child known as resulting from this union of Robert and Mary Brumell Dodson was a son, Thomas, born

DODSON GENEALOGY.

1728, and died after 1770. This Thomas, 2nd, married a wife whose name was Esther (family name not given). Their children were Elizabeth, James, John, Mary, Robert, 2nd, Joseph and Thomas, 3rd.

Thomas, 2nd, was a prominent citizen of his county, a gentleman of the "old school," a member of St. Peter's Parish of the English Colonial Church, but liberal in his ideas of religious worship, and when Methodism was introduced into his section, his youngest son, Thomas, became one of its early itinerant ministers.

Robert Dodson, 2nd, son of Thomas and Esther Dodson, was born December 6th, 1762, and died April 10th, 1824. He married Elizabeth Auld January 20th, 1785, from which union were born William, Sarah, Eliza, Robert, 3rd, Edward Auld, Edward, Ann Maria, and Emily L. Dodson. He married for his second wife a widow Hutton, but had no issue by this marriage. The life of this Robert was a strenuous one, not only preserved as family legend in the memory of his descendants, but at this late period made more evident by the finding of his old ledger of an hundred years ago, portraying in a clear statement the various operations in which he was engaged, his association with events of that period, and the people of the day and generation among whom he lived. He farmed, traded in the general products of his region, dealt in real estate, and took hold of any enterprise that offered an opportunity for a successful return. He engaged largely in merchandising, and the "Dodson Store" was one of the well known institutions of his town. Later on in life he became interested in education and was largely instrumental in having the children of the community properly educated. Co-existing with his various pursuits he owned several vessels that traded on the Bay, among which was one in which he was specially interested, the schooner "Edward," which was fitted for both freight and passengers, and plied between St. Michael's and Baltimore. The trips of the Edward during 1812-13 are faithfully recorded in the old ledger; what each trip paid, and what were the attending expenses. This account shows that in 1812 the vessel made thirty-four trips to and from Baltimore, starting early in March and ending the last of December, at which time the vessel was under the command of his son William, who made such a good showing that year that the youthful commander bought the half of the vessel on credit, and during the time William was in the U. S. Navy the vessel's profits paid the bill. The "Edward" in 1813, under another captain, made twenty-seven trips from St. Michael's to Baltimore, which, under the circumstances, was truly remarkable, as the British swarmed the Bay, and were especially active on that portion of it over which he sailed, escaping the fate that befell so many others of the same occupation. Yet in spite of such danger and interruption, the vessel began her trips early in March, 1813, and continued them with marked regularity to the close of the following December, with the exception of a 40-day blockade in the harbor of St. Michaels by the enemy, during which time the battle with the British occurred at that place. An interesting item of the "Old Ledger" account is worthy of mention. A freight charge is shown against Lloyd Nichols for pork and fish, July 19, 1813, who is credited in August of the same year with loss of the same. An explanatory note reading, "Spoiled on account of the blockade by the enemy." This Robert Dodson was especially active during this period of the British invasion in aiding his section, distributing arms to the people for their defense in the threatened districts, having also one of his vessels fitted out and armed as a guard boat.

He died at the age of 62, and was buried in the old Methodist cemetery at St. Michael's.

William Dodson, previously mentioned in association with his father's sailing and trading interests, was the oldest son of the last-named Robert Dodson, was born at St. Michael's, Md., in 1786, and died in Baltimore in 1833. He married Amelia S. Brown, and by this marriage had eight children, viz., Robert, William, Elizabeth, Helen, Amelia, Leonidas, Julia and Edward.

He was sent to the best schools which the time and place afforded and was designed for a very different life from the one he subsequently pursued. His father had planned for him a liberal education, and for some time kept him diligently at his studies. Soon, however, the sailor spirit developed, and quite early in life he gave up his studies and began the career which his spirit craved. Once he made a voyage across the Atlantic as mate of a ship, but at the urgency of his father he gave up his desire for ocean navigation, and thus at the beginning of his more eventful life we find him in charge of his father's packet schooner "Edward." This vessel, while temporarily under his command, sailing from Baltimore July 26th, 1813, outsailed the British pursuers and escaped into St. Michael's harbor, which was attacked a few days later by the British.

On this vessel at the same time was his intimate friend, James Martin, and a number of armed associates. When the "Edward" returned from this exciting trip William Dodson at once took charge of the "lookout boat" and watched the movements of the British vessels which had assembled off "Kent Point." On their approach to St. Michael's for the attack, he sailed his vessel into the harbor and anchored her alongside of other vessels that had taken refuge there. At the request of General Benson, who commanded the militia assembled there for defense, he took command of Parrott's Point Battery in an earthwork erected to guard the town. This battery defeated the British on August 10th, 1813, in their attempt to capture St. Michael's and destroy the vessels in refuge there, as well as those on the stocks in process of building. The fire from this battery killed and wounded so many of the British that they were thoroughly defeated and driven off, and the town and shipping saved.

After the defense of St. Michael's he and his friend Martin, who was with him in that defense, joined the U. S. Navy under Commodore Joshua Barney, whose flotilla, in which he and his friend were appointed sailing masters, sailed from Baltimore in May, 1814, and fought furiously with the British on the Bay, till the enemy landed in large force at Benedict on the Patuxent River, and commenced operations against Washington City.

This flotilla was purposely destroyed on the Patuxent River to prevent its falling into the enemy's hands.

We next find William and his friend Martin standing side by side with their gallant commodore, trying to stem the British advance at Bladensburg. Here the enemy was successful, Washington was taken, Capitol buildings burned and valuable records destroyed. Martin was desperately wounded in the battle at Bladensburg and during the general confusion at Washington William Dodson took his wounded friend and conveyed him in an open boat across the Chesapeake Bay to St. Michael's and left him in charge of his friends. He then hastened to Baltimore, and with the fragment of Barney's men assisted in its defense, being stationed during the attack in a small battery close to Fort Covington, which assisted in driving the enemy back in their attempt to take Fort McHenry in the rear.

When peace was declared he left the navy and returned to St. Michael's, where he again resumed his previous occupation and successfully pursued it for many years. On one of these trips to Baltimore he died suddenly on his vessel as she laid at her wharf. His remains having been recently disinterred from their first resting place, were taken to his native town and buried in the "Dodson Lot" of Mt. Olivet cemetery, St. Michaels, Md. In this sacred spot may now be seen a granite tablet, with rough rock finish, bearing the following inscription:

TO THE MEMORY OF WILLIAM DODSON.

Born 1786. Died 1833.

A Sailing Master in the U. S. Navy.

"He commanded a private armed vessel furnished by his father in the early part of the war of 1812, that guarded the waters of the Eastern Bay and its tributaries. He was in charge of Parrott's Point Battery August 10th, 1813, where the British were defeated in their attack upon the town of St. Michael's. He fought under Commodore Barney at Bladensburg, and participated in the defense of Baltimore at Fort McHenry, September, 1814."

Robert Auld Dodson, son of William and Amelia Brown Dodson, was born at St. Michael's, November 6th, 1808, and died at the old homestead in his native town in 1883 in the presence of his family, all of whom were then living. He married Hester Ann Keithley, of Baltimore, January 24th, 1833, and by this union eight children were born, William Keithley, Robert Auld, Richard Stearns, Henry Clay, Charles Marion, Amelia Jane, Melancthon, and Hester Eugene.

Robert A. Dodson began the life of a sailor when quite young. The first vessel he commanded was the "Amelia," owned by his father. For several years he continued with this pursuit for his father, who at that time carried on a lucrative business of freight and passenger traffic between St. Michael's and Baltimore.

In 1832 he went as mate on a vessel trading for some time among the islands of the Caribbean Sea. On one of these trips from Turk's Island, laden with salt, his vessel encountered a fearful hurricane off Cape Hatteras, and came near being a total loss. Two men were swept overboard and lost. The vessel was saved, though badly damaged. After his marriage he continued to sail from Baltimore until 1836, when he gave up long ocean voyages and became captain of the "Sally of Wye," sailing between Baltimore and Wye, to which latter place he removed and was there employed for three years. In 1839 he returned to St. Michael's, his father having died. He there at once laid the foundation for larger enterprises, and an increased packet business, which continued under his management with great success until 1861. He had built in succession the following named vessels, "The William Hambleton," "Ann Catharine," "Sea Gull," "B. M. Corner," "Amelia" and the "William K. Dodson." All these were beautiful specimens of sailing craft, the packet boats for passengers in particular, which by their number indicated the measure of their success, and the amount of travel and freight supplied. It was the day before railroads traversed the prosperous peninsula of Eastern Maryland, and very few steamboats plied the Chesapeake waters, and it is worthy of mention that this large enterprise in sailing craft, under his management, was carried on with such a degree of care and regularity that never a passenger was injured or a pound of freight lost.

The breaking out of the Civil War in 1861, found him in command of the steamer "Star" running between St. Michael's and Baltimore. Steam navigation was by this time crowding out the passenger sailing vessel. With foresight he had disposed of most of his sailing vessels and was negotiating to purchase the steamer of which he was in command, when the U. S. Government bought her for the Burnside Expedition to Port Royal, South Carolina. In addition to his nautical career, he was also largely engaged in coal and lumber interests in his native town.

In politics he was an old line Whig, but a strong Union man, and loyally supported President Lincoln in those trying days of the border States. He was present on Pratt street, in Baltimore, during the 19th of April riot when the Massachusetts troops were assailed by a mob, and for boldly denouncing this act at the time and scene of its occurrence his life was threatened by the excited mob. He sent two sons to defend the Union cause during the Civil War, one in the army and one in the navy, while two others of his sons filled civil positions under the government.

During the enlistment and drafting of troops he was appointed the enrolling officer for the government in Talbot county. He was subsequently appointed postmaster of St. Michael's.

In a brief concluding summary. Robert A. Dodson, both in private and public life, was in every way a prominent and influential citizen. He was closely identified with the people of his town and county and few, if any, enterprises for the welfare of his section and people were ever entertained without his co-operation and assistance. Early in life he identified himself with the Methodist church, and to the day of his death was one of its faithful supporters and active workers.

Following this sketch of the six generations of Maryland Dodsons, the tabulated lists of their numerous descendants will appear in chronological order.

THOMAS AND KATHARINE SAVILL DODSON LINE.

- 3 7. Thomas Dodson, b. 10, 19, 1669; m. 7, 16, 1698.
- 4 Katharine Savill.
- 5 G III: 1. John Dodson, b. 1699.
- 6 2. Robert 1st, b. 1700; d. 1745.
- 7 3. Susannah, b. 1702.

—OF THESE—

-  (5) 1. John Dodson. Married.
- 8 Lucy Long.

Note.—Records of a great-granddaughter, still living at an advanced age, says this John and wife came very early from Eastern Shore of Maryland to Virginia, and from whom there is a long line of descendants in Virginia and North Carolina. This line of descent will follow that of Robert, of the Maryland line.

- (6) 2. Robert Dodson, 1st, m. 8, 18, 1827.
- 9 Mary Brumell.
- 10 G IV: 1. Thomas Dodson, b. 1728; d. about 1780.
- Probably others.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

Note.—Annapolis records give the wills of a William and Jonathan Dobson, of Talbot County, Md. Said wills probated in August and November, 1733. The years here mentioned, and the county in which they resided being the same as the early Dodson settlers naturally suggest an error in the spelling, an error common in the early days, and that most probably they were really Dodsons.

11 3. Susannah Dodson, b. 1701; m. 8, 4, 1728.

12 William Clark.

Note.—Introduction to this Maryland line gives the authority for the marriage dates of Robert and Susannah.

16 2. Mary, b. 1758; d. 3, 10, 1843.

17. 3. John, b. 1760.

18 4. Robert, 2nd, b. 12, 6, 1762; d. 4, 10, 1824.

19 5. Joseph, b. 10, 28, 1764; d. 8, 1, 1813.

20 6. Rev. Thomas, b. 1768 or 1770; d. 1826.

Note.—The dates of birth and death of this second Thomas are approximate. In addition to traditionary evidence there are two very interesting facts of record made many years ago by the late Leonidas Dodson, of Easton, Md. 1st. A note given to him Nov. 12, 1861, signed by Thomas Dodson, as follows: "I promise to pay or cause to be paid to Charles Gosage, or his order, on demand, the sum of five pounds, thirteen shillings, current money of Maryland."

2nd. A local newspaper contained a reference to this "Thomas" as the father of Robert Dodson, who at that time was a candidate for the Sheriffalty of his county. A Mr. Gibson championed his cause through the press as follows: "Among the virtues enumerated of the said Robert was, that he was a dutiful son and labored long to support his aged and afflicted parents." Said Robert being born in 1762, and his younger brother, the Rev. Thomas, born in 1768, by one record, or in 1770 by another record, indicates at once that the date of Thomas' death was more likely to have been about or after 1780. And also by the fact that Esther, his wife, died in 1801, would indicate that Thomas lived to quite an advanced age.

SKETCH.

William Keithley Dodson was born in Baltimore. When quite young his parents removed to St. Michael's, where his childhood years were spent. He went to Baltimore when quite young, and for several years was employed as a salesman in a dry goods house of that city. Later he removed to Bloomington, Illinois, where he became a successful business man and a prominent citizen of the place. After an active and successful business career of many years he died and was buried there.

SKETCH.

Richard Stearns Dodson was born at Wye, Talbot County, Md. When about two years of age his parents moved to St. Michael's, where he grew up. He became a sailor quite early in life on one of his father's vessels, and before he was of age became captain of the schooner "William K. Dodson," which his father had built specially for him. Being ambitious for a wider sphere of activity, he soon gave up sailing, secured a clerkship at the Maltby House, Baltimore, and commenced his career as a hotel manager. After several years he went next to the Fountain Hotel, a very popular house at that time in Baltimore, first as manager and subsequently co-proprietor with the late William H. Clabaugh. The opening of German street caused the closing up of this hotel. He then took charge of the Herdic House, Williamsport, Pa., and Minnequa Springs. After two years in this employ he went to Norfolk, Virginia, purchased the Atlantic Hotel, made extensive improvements to it, making it one of the largest and most thoroughly equipped hotels in the South. He managed this hotel until the wear and tear of a busy life forced him to turn it over to his oldest son, Robert A. Dodson, and retired from his active life and removed to Baltimore. During his life he accumulated quite a fortune, not only in real estate in Norfolk, but was also a large property owner in Baltimore and in Talbot county. He was a member of the Methodist Church for many years, a member of the Board of Stewards of the First Church in Baltimore, and also of the Board of Trustees of the Woman's College in that city. He died at his home on Charles street extended, and was laid to rest in Greenmount cemetery, Baltimore.

SKETCH.

William Brown Dodson was born at St. Michael's, Md., moved to Baltimore when quite a young man, finding business employment there. Subsequently he went to Cincinnati, Ohio. For several years he was in command of passenger steamers plying between New Orleans and the upper Mississippi River and tributaries. Later he had charge of U. S. snag boats, and for a number of years was engaged with them in removing obstructions and keeping the Mississippi River open to navigation. While thus engaged he died suddenly and his remains were taken to his Cincinnati home for burial.

His first wife, Emmeline Hambleton, with their first born and infant child, was among the ill-fated number who lost their lives in the capsizing of the schooner "Thomas Edward."

Edward Leonidas Dodson, son of the above, is the secretary and treasurer of the American Engineering Co., Springfield, Ohio. He was a soldier in the Civil War, and served his country in the dark days of 1861-65, as a member of Co.

SKETCH.

Leonidas Dodson was born in St. Michael's, the home town of his ancestors for so many years, October 12th, 1822. In his school days he was a bright scholar, where his mother persisted in keeping him, though he often begged her to let him go out and help earn a part of the family bread. He was later a clerk in the store of his uncle, Thomas Auld, to which he often trudged in the severe winters in the early morning, through trackless snow, to open the store and make the fire. While engaged here he spent much time at night teaching the famous Frederick Douglass, and helping him on to an education, he being owned as a slave by this uncle. He finally left the employ of his uncle and took charge of a school for girls, in which he was a very successful teacher, and held in great esteem all through life by those who had been his pupils. After this he accepted a position in the Easton National Bank of Maryland, where rising by gradual promotions, he spent the rest of his active days enjoying the confidence and esteem of all with whom he had business relations, not only of bank officials, but of the entire community.

He early became a member of the Methodist Church, ever active in its support and upbuilding, holding positions of class leader, trustee and steward. He was also a licensed local preacher. Gifted with voice and ability he very often exercised these gifts to the joy and pleasure of those who heard. He was twice married and left a numerous family of children. He died in the City of Baltimore, where he had gone for treatment. His remains were taken to Easton, where they lay in state in the church of his choice, viewed by hosts of sorrowing friends.

He was buried in Spring Hill cemetery, which owed its chief beauty to him who had been the active secretary of the association for many years.

His son, William Patterson Dodson, who has contributed this sketch, has been for over twenty years a Methodist missionary in Africa. He sailed with Bishop Taylor's heroic band of pioneer missionaries in 1885 to Angola, remaining there for fourteen years before taking his first furlough. He followed Bishop Taylor into the wilderness, and writes that he spent "many happy days and nights with him in travel and labor." He is still at his post under Bishop Hartzell, who appointed him presiding elder of the district in which he still labors. He also writes that, "after twenty-two years he finds himself strong for the work, and by God's blessing, still enabled to endure the hardship of climate and wilderness travel, and has been instrumental in the establishment of five native stations through the wilds of Angola, manned by native workers. He expects in 1908 to take his second furlough and visit his native home.

He married in 1893 Catharine M. MacKensie, of Prince Edward Island, and has five children.

SKETCH.

Edward Napoleon Dodson, born at St. Michael's, Md., began his active life as a sailor on the schooner B. M. Corner, owned by his brother, which vessel he subsequently commanded for several years. In 1855 he went to New Orleans and for a short time was mate on a Mississippi steamer plying between that city and Cairo. After a year or two spent on the Mississippi, he returned to St. Michael's and took command of the steamer "Urbana" for several years, after which he took command of the steamer "Olive," running it between St. Michael's and Baltimore for a long time. Later in life he gave up boating and engaged in the wood and coal business. He was a member of the Methodist Church and a prominent citizen of his section. He died in his native town and was buried in Mount Olivet cemetery of that place.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

SKETCH.

Richard Whatcoat Dodson, while in impaired health and seeking rest and benefit, died at "Cape Island." Harriet Styles Ball, his wife, was the only daughter of Joseph Ball, of "Richmond Hall," Philadelphia. Their daughter Sarah was an artist of very considerable note, and in this her favorite pursuit spent much of her life in Europe. She inherited her artistic talents from her father, who in his younger years had attained marked success. Mother, daughter and son finally settled in Brighton, England, because of the mother's delicate health, where they purchased an attractive home, and where both mother and daughter recently deceased. Mr. Richard Ball Dodson, though unmarried, continues to reside there.

SKETCH.

Rev. Thomas Dodson, according to Lee's "History of the Methodists," entered the itinerant ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1797 and retired from active service in 1803.

Reference to the General Minutes of the church for that period gives the following particulars respecting his connection with the Church: Admitted on trial, 1797, and appointed to Northampton Circuit, Va.; continued on trial 1799, and appointed to Dorchester Circuit, Md.; ordained deacon 1799, and appointed to Somerset County Circuit, Md.; appointed to Delaware Circuit 1800; ordained Elder 1801, and appointed to Queen Ann Circuit, Md.; appointed to Dover, Del., Circuit 1802, and located 1803, owing to ill health. He finally settled in Strasburg, Lancaster Co., Pa., where both himself and wife died in 1826 and were buried in the Methodist cemetery there.

VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA BRANCHES OF MARYLAND BRANCH A.

In chronological order this portion of the Maryland branch, from John, the oldest son of Thomas and Katharine Savill Dodson, should precede that as tabulated of the descent from Thomas. However, because of the proximity to the starting point, whence both the Pennsylvania and Maryland branches found their first and largely continuous abiding places, it seemed best in the order of sequence as to time and place, that this Virginia and North Carolina line of descent should follow, the index numbering following on in regular order from the same.

(5 AND 8) JOHN AND LUCY LONG DODSON LINE.

SKETCH.

- (5) 1. John Dodson, born in 1699; most probably in New Jersey, and settled with his parents in Talbot Co., Md. He married there quite early in life, and about 1725, with his wife, settled in one of the border counties of Virginia. His children born in Virginia are as follows:

- 485 G IV: 1. Daniel Dodson.
486 2. Charles.
487 3. William.
488 4. James.
489 5. John.

And probably daughters.

This statement is from one of the oldest living descendants of Charles, the second son named above, and said statement is also a tradition in the Maryland family.

Daniel, the oldest son, remained in Virginia. Charles and William went to North Carolina. No trace or knowledge of James and John has been found except a bare mention in a brief genealogical table, that if married they left no issue. And yet Lucy, a daughter of Charles, married a cousin John Dodson, who in all probability was a son of one of these.

Daniel became the possessor of a large estate of plantation and forest lands. He was twice married—name of first wife not ascertained; had issue, but both wife and children died early, leaving him alone and childless. In his advanced years he married again and settled in Petersburg, Va., where he died and was buried.

But they found friends who cared for them until they could reach relatives in Virginia and North Carolina.

—OF HIS CHILDREN—

Miss Stepha Dodson is engaged in the mission work of the Episcopal Church, in Shanghai, China, and for eighteen years has devoted herself to that noble work. She is now president of St. Mary's Hall, a college for girls, in Shanghai. Stephen Mayfield, oldest son, remained in Texas, married there and has a large family. Charles Russell, 2nd, is head of a large and successful commercial firm in Kinston, N. C., and his oldest sister, Mary Ellen, is head of the accounting and bookkeeping department of the firm.

3. William Dodson, third son of John and Lucy Dodson, was born in Virginia. He married a "Lucy" (surname not ascertained). Soon after marriage he emigrated to North Carolina. He died there about, or not long after, 1800, leaving his wife Lucy with two young sons. For the sake of educating her boys, the widow removed to Georgia. There her sons became greatly interested in education, became professional men, and it is said became greatly interested in the success of a college at Oxford, Ga., and probably were among its founders, or in its faculty as professors. In a century of years their first names have been lost to memory, and most diligent search to date has failed to find any trace of them or of descendants, if any.

James and John Dodson, fourth and fifth sons of John and Lucy Long Dodson, have left no trace of locality, marriage or descent.

The Lucy Dodson, daughter of Charles, married a cousin, John Dodson, and died without issue. It is very probable that this cousin John was a son of one of these brothers. A brief record on a family chart, however, marks their names as without issue.

With this sketch ends this interesting Dodson family line.

MARYLAND BRANCH B.

Introduction

In the State House offices at Annapolis, Maryland, among the records of early arrivals and landholders, are the following names of a John Dodson landing there in 1652, of a second John, in 1662, and Katharine, in 1666; John and Katharine very probably children of the first named John.

John Dodson, Sr., settled in Charles county, Maryland, and John, Jr., in Calvert county. In the same offices at Annapolis the following wills are of record:

1. Will of John Dodson, Sr., of Charles Co., made January 26th, 1734, and probated April 16th, 1735. In this will mention is made of wife Leticia, and sons John and Walter, and a daughter Frances Hewton, and the name of the plantation as "Dodson's Courage."

2. Will of John Dodson, Jr., of Calvert county, made November 3rd, 1736, and probated February 2nd, 1737. This will mentions James, Joseph, John, Eleanor, Benjamin, Elias, Margaret, Sarah, Mary, and two grandchildren—John and William Morgan. James and Joseph were appointed executor, refused to act.

3. Will of Walter Dodson, of Charles county; January, 1773. Probated March 31st, 1773. Mentions wife Henrietta and brother John—other brothers and sisters, but names not given. Wife and brother John named as executors.

Note.—It can scarcely be doubted that some one of these early Johns became the ancestor of the Maryland branch of Dodsons, whose genealogy follows, as there is record of one who married a wife of Charles county.

(787) 2. Joseph Allen Dodson is a surgeon dentist in Maysville, Kentucky, and a partner in his father's business.

Joseph Henry Dodson (the father) is a prominent citizen in Maysville and has long been engaged in a large and successful warehousing business, dealing in grain, leaf tobacco, coal and other products. He relates the following legend of an early ancestor, who was a captain under Braddock and in his disastrous defeat by the Indians. In mortal combat with an Indian chief, armed with only a flintlock pistol, he took refuge behind a small tree, which did not cover his body. The chief hurled his tomahawk, which struck the tree, and when rushing toward him with his knife, Captain Dodson shot him dead, captured his tomahawk and an Indian war bonnet, relics long preserved in the family, and escaped with his life. He was also commissioned with six hundred Marylanders to fight the English battles in the West Indies, where from disease and war fatalities but one hundred and sixty returned. He with others died there with fever.

Among his sons, John, Charles and Thomas were soldiers in the Revolution, and were mustered out of service at Annapolis at the time Washington resigned his commission. This ancestor was John Dodson I, who heads this genealogy record.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

MARYLAND BRANCH C.

JOHN AND ELEANOR HOWARD DODSON LINE.

INTRODUCTORY.

The head of this line in this country was John Dodson, born in Shrewsbury, Shropshire, England, in 1752. When but nineteen years of age and while serving an apprenticeship he suddenly decided to embark for America, and landed at Annapolis, Md., in 1771. From the fact that a Dodson family was then prominent in the vicinity of Annapolis, having settled there in the latter part of 1600, said John, of Shrewsbury, England, may have been attracted there from a probable kinship and knowledge of them.

John married March 2nd, 1778, Eleanor Howard, of Maryland, daughter of General Eager Howard, who was prominent in both the Revolutionary War, and probably also in the war of 1812. The Howard family of Maryland were prominent in that day, and have remained well known in Maryland history from colonial days. A prominent street in Baltimore City bears their name. The Howard family of this country and of England trace their lineage to Lord Edward Howard, in the reign of Henry VIII, and also claim a kinship with George III.

In the will of a John Dodson, one of the earlier Maryland settlers, made in 1736, among the children therein named was Margaret and Eleanor. Margaret married a Howard.

In 1778, when John of Shrewsbury married Eleanor Howard, it can easily be a probable surmise that a daughter of the said Margaret Dodson Howard mentioned in said will of 1736, and named for her sister Eleanor, was the Eleanor Howard who became the wife of this later John Dodson, of Shrewsbury, England.

John Dodson took part in the Revolutionary struggles of the Colonies for independence, and was present with Washington's army at the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown. Some time after the marriage of John and Eleanor they resided in Baltimore, where some of their children were born. In the fall of 1795 John Dodson and family removed to a suburb of Cincinnati, Ohio, where a number of their descendants still reside, while others have scattered farther west and south.

END OF MARYLAND BRANCH C.

EARLY VIRGINIA BRANCHES

Introductory

The annals of Virginia record the name of a "Dodson Plantation" in 1632. And the traditional story in a large and now widely scattered line of descendants is that their ancestor lived along the James River and was one of the early Jamestown Colony.

There is also mention of one John Dodson, who was a "mighty hunter" and "fur trader," and who in his dealings with the Indians became the possessor of large bodies of land.

Another John very early found his way to the western side of Virginia to what is now Patrick County, and where his memory is preserved in the name of "Dodson Postoffice," but from which locality he long since passed away, leaving none behind him there of the Dodson name at this day.

Descendants of the early Jamestown settler, from the various Virginia families of which traces are known, must have in the latter part of the century of their first settlement moved slowly to the western portions of the State.

Among the earliest names positively known by descendants of a widely scattered family, as of the James River or Jamestown ancestors, are William and Jesse, and these most probably of the first or second generation from the original settler, as the following genealogical tables will show.

Quite a number settled first in the valleys of the Blue Ridge Mountain region—Shenandoah Valley and others. During the latter part, or about the close of the War of the Revolution a large emigration left this region and settled in Kentucky and Tennessee, and later thence to Ohio, Indiana and Missouri.

Among those emigrating to Kentucky were Thomas, Jesse, Leonard, Rollo, William and Jethro, and their families.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

Thomas' family consisted of twelve sons and two daughters. These all settled for a time in Wayne County near Monticello.

The ancestry of these goes back from Thomas to George to Jesse and to the early James River or Jamestown, Virginia, settlers. Four or five of the sons of Thomas, from 1830-35 and '40 finally settled Missouri.

The tabulated genealogy of several of these will follow, as far as ascertained.

A JESSE DODSON LINE.

1201. This Jesse Dodson is evidently one of several brothers who emigrated from Virginia to Kentucky in the latter half of the sixteenth century. Among these brothers were a Thomas and a Leonard. If so, the genealogical descent of this Jesse would be as follows:

1201 1. Jesse, of George, of Jesse, of the early Virginia settler of the Jamestown colony.

Jesse emigrated from Kentucky to Clark County, Ohio, in 1810. Name of his wife not known. He was the father of six sons and four daughters, as follows:

1202 G V: 1. William Dodson. Married 1202(a) Patty Canaan.

1203 2. Elijah Dodson. Married 1203(a) Elizabeth Reynolds.

Note.—Elijah became a Baptist minister and settled in southern Indiana.

1204 3. Jesse Dodson, 2nd. Married 1212 Jane Patten.

1205 4. James W. Married 1213 Mary Ann Reynolds.

1206 5. John A. Married 1214 Millicent Davis.

1207 6. Joseph Carter. Married 1215 Wife not known.

1208 7. Peggy. Married 1216 William Sailor.

1209 8 Betty. Married 1217 John Johnson.

1210 9. Polly. Married 1218 Christian Baylor.

1211 10. Patty. Married 1219 Major Moore.

Note.—Major Moore was an officer in the U. S. Army during the war of 1812.

- 1235 G VII: 1. Harry A. Strohm, b. 11, 21, 1868.

Note.—The three Dodson brothers, Lewis S., S. Milton and Jeremiah V., are hardware merchants, plumbers' supplies and plumbing, in Kentland, Indiana.

1236. Leonard Dodson was also one of the company of brothers who with their families formed part of the emigration from Virginia to Kentucky during or about the close of the War of the Revolution. A Jesse and a Thomas are among those brothers who are especially mentioned. Leonard and Thomas are said to have married sisters, as their descendants claim a double cousinship.

—LEONARD'S RECORD.—

- 1236 Leonard, of George, of Jesse, of early Virginia settler. Leonard married.
- 1237 Mary Darnalls.
- 1238 G V: 1. Stockton Dodson.

- 1255 8. Winnifred Elizabeth,
- 1256 9. Thomas H., b. 6, 22, 1842.

Note.—The Burnetts, a name which occurs so frequently in the marriage relationships of this Dodson line, are direct descendants through Thomas Mayo, of Virginia, from Pocahontas, of Indian fame. The Mayo family is still prominent in Virginia history. Ruth, above mentioned, was a granddaughter of said Thomas Mayo; Eli and Stockton, brothers, married sisters, and a cousin, John R. Dodson, married Sarah Burnett. The parents of these were Isham Burnett and Winnifred Mayo, his wife. And so the names Isham and Winnifred are carried down through several generations.

 1309 2. Conrad O'Connor, b. 10, 6, 1904.

Note.—Charles E. Shaft served in the Spanish-American War, and while stationed at Charleston with the Red Cross Hospital, met the lady who became his wife, who was of German parentage.

Gladys Winnifred Bennett was known as the Child Prima Donna and prodigy in dramatic art. At four years of age she improvised a scene on the stage in Steinway Hall, Chicago, before a large audience. At nine years of age she sang any aria or song known by her mother, who was a fine soprano soloist. She also played equally well on piano or violin solos of classical selection, as well as the accompaniments of all songs and arias sung by her mother or herself. She died suddenly in San Francisco, just after a rehearsal, in which she was to appear the next evening, and then only in her tenth year. Louis Lorrell, her brother, is also gifted with the same musical talents.

In this family there is an alliance with descendants of both the celebrated English house of Shaftesbury and the Stuart house of Scotland.

Note.—Thomas Dodson and his brother, Elias, about the beginning of the Civil War, went to California. They lived for a number of years in Orland, Glenn County, where they managed and edited the "Orland News." Thomas is said to have invented an automobile before automobiles were known in this country, a full account of which was given in the "Orland News" at that time and copied therefrom. Elias died in California in 1899 and was unmarried.

THOMAS AND EMINA DODSON LINE.

This Thomas Dodson and several brothers, also several sons and their families led the emigration from Virginia to Kentucky in the latter part of the eighteenth century. Among the brothers were a Jesse and a Leonard. And among the sons were Thomas, Jesse, Elisha, George, John R., Rollo (or Raleigh), William, Joseph, James, Leonard, Jethro, Eli and two daughters, Polly and Winnifred, who died unmarried.

Thomas, of George, of Jesse, of early Virginia ancestor.

The genealogy of some of the sons of Thomas as has been obtained, will here follow. The name Rollo, of the above, has been so differently spelled in letters and manuscripts. as Rolly, Rawly, &c., that it is most likely derived from "Raleigh," as above suggested in parenthesis.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

The Jesse here mentioned as next to the early Virginia ancestor may himself have been that early ancestor, as the name Jesse has been perpetuated in several of the families, both in the Kentucky and Tennessee lines, of the Virginia emigration of the period above mentioned. And yet among other Dodson lines both in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia, the name John is more usually met with, as the name of the first ancestors in this country.

GEORGE AND POLLY RODGERS (DODSON) LINE.

George Dodson, fourth son of Thomas, was nine years old in 1798, when his father and family and several uncles emigrated from Virginia to Kentucky.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

Note.—Thomas, the father of George, was a Baptist minister, and also a farmer and miller in Virginia and in Kentucky, as was his father, George, before him in Virginia. Said George was a captain in the War of the Revolution. George, Jr., the father of the above numerous family, removed with the younger half of his family from Kentucky to Missouri in 1830, and there spent the rest of his days.

VIRGINIA BRANCH.

SKETCH OF DR. SHELBY M. DODSON.

Dr. Shelby M. Dodson was born January 16th, 1839, in Randolph County, Missouri, where George Dodson, his father, moved from the old homestead near Monticello, Ky. His father belonged to that hardy band of pioneers that hewed our civilization from the great wilderness, overcoming obstacles and enduring privations and calamities little less than miraculous. Said George was a member of the famous Kentucky Riflemen, who under General Jackson at New Orleans proved such a living wall of fire to the British, January 8th, 1815. Such, too, was the spirit and energy of this son, but, unlike the father, Shelby Martin's aspirations were toward the ethical. Raised on the farm, his mind and soul hungered for expansion. Even in the furrows when his horses rested from the plowing, his thoughts were ever on books. He attended the successive three months' school term held in the little school house on his father's farm, reading with avidity the meagre literature of his day of which he could lay hold. Intermitted with the hard work on the farm he taught school in the winter season, and finally studied at McGee College. After which he began the study of medicine, with Dr. Robert Terrell as preceptor, entering thereafter the medical college at Keokuk, Iowa. He graduated finally with high honors at the age of twenty-five from the St. Louis Medical College. He at once began active practice. During the Civil War and after its close, his professional services were in constant demand and were given unreservedly to every one. Northern and Southern men, non-combatants, renegades, alike received his aid. Over rough roads, through heat and cold, day and night, he was kept busy. Epidemics broke out among the men returned from the war, and the strain of labor and exposure was doubled, so much so that it told heavily on his strength. Successive breakdowns occurred, yet with the characteristic energy of his ancestry he kept up the fight against sickness and disease, until almost the end, which occurred at San Jose, California, March 4th, 1906.

Dr. Dodson was a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, an honored Mason, a friend of the poor, and all through his life he bore that fine spirit which marks and fulfills our highest ideal, that of a "Christian gentleman."

Dr. Dodson was married August 11th, 1864, to Susan Eleanor Proctor, of the following quite noted ancestry: Her great-grandfather was General John Thomas of Revolutionary War history. His daughter (Jane Thomas), her grandmother, married George Proctor, and their son, Rowland Thomas Proctor, married Diana Chapman, who were the parents of Mrs. Shelby M. Dodson. The family of General Thomas were kindred of Thomas Jefferson, whence his christian name.

The following historic incident, unnoticed by most historians, is quoted from the U. S. History of Mrs. Emma Willard published by Barnes & Co., New York, in 1856, (page 204, section 6). "May 5th, 1776.—General Thomas now arrived and superseded Arnold. He made several attempts to reduce Quebec, but the sudden appearance of the British fleet obliged him to retreat with such precipitation that he abandoned his baggage and stores. Many of the sick and wounded fell into the hands of Carleton, by whom they were treated with honorable humanity."

Of the children of Dr. Shelby M. Dodson, Rev. George Rowland is a minister, "Church of the Unity," St. Louis, Mo. Graduate University of Missouri, A. B., 1887; A. M. Harvard, 1902; Ph. D. Harvard, 1903.

SKETCH.

Isham Burnett Dodson, the head of this line of family descendants, was born in Kentucky and removed with his parents to Missouri in 1841, where he soon after married. Before the Civil War he owned and enjoyed a beautiful home and estate near Kirksville, Mo. In this hospitable home, the courtly and cordial manner of the father and genial smile of the gentle mother was the charm of the happy household, attracting many visitors, and many a passer-by who enjoyed their friendship. Nor did any one in need ever appeal in vain. Travelers stopped without money and without price. And many a poor boy found a home and help in life's beginning. Possessing a large estate, he owned and employed many helpers and servants, and these all found in him a kind and considerate master, and though a slave owner, he espoused the cause of the Union and fought to make them free, and many of those who had been his slaves wanted to remain as his servants. He entered the army and was a Major of the 2nd Missouri Cavalry. In civil life he was twice elected Sheriff, and afterward Representative for two terms, and Senator in the Assembly of his State. When the war closed he came home to find his fine estate in almost a ruined condition. His home had been used as a hospital and had been stripped of everything. At the close of the war the officers and members of his company presented him with a costly sword, bearing the inscription: "Honor to whom honor is due." After the war his health failed. His well-nigh ruined estate and his love and generosity among his people left him a poor man. He died on Christmas evening in 1879. Thus calmly and peaceably a life full of usefulness and good deeds passed away mourned by a large family and by all who knew him.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

A tribute to the memory of Professor W. S. Dodson, son of Major Isham B. Dodson, is worthy of mention here. He died of consumption at the early age of thirty-five, in the prime of a very successful educational life. He was a man of education and refinement and ranked high as a teacher, and had done much to bring the schools up to a high standard both morally and intellectually. He began teaching at sixteen years of age and ceased only when broken health compelled. He particularly loved children, winning their confidence and affection, and thus leading them and inspiring them to noble aspirations for good. He was above all an earnest and devoted Christian and his example and influence remains indelible on many hearts and lives.

James Butler Dodson, another son, is a prominent lawyer in Springfield, Mo., and is a fine orator. He served two terms as Clerk of the Circuit Court and one as Prosecuting Attorney of Adair County.

Grace Tufts, a granddaughter, in a brief life of Christian character and remarkable power and influence, also deserves special mention and memory. From early childhood she developed the faculty and ability of leadership in church affairs and social reforms. Gifted with charming voice and manner she led many young people into paths of virtue and religion. She became assistant pastor to her uncle, Rev. J. R. Blunt, and during his evangelistic services in Richland, Mo., she was a power and a blessing. In 1903 her parents removed to Okemah, Indian Territory. She began at once to organize there Christian Endeavor Societies, establish prayer meetings and the founding of a Christian church. In 1905 she married Carl Dudgeon, and when but thirteen weeks a bride, death claimed her and her work was done.

WILLIAM DODSON LINE.

1700. Descendants of this William, in Tennessee have the tradition that, "he was born in Wales; married an English lady, and, coming to America, settled in the Shenandoah Valley, Virginia, long before the Revolutionary War."

This statement the writer, from other circumstances, is led to believe an error. In the first place, the "Dodson" name is English from very early centuries, and while the earliest Dodson Virginia settler may have had a temporary connection in Wales, two generations in this country at least must have preceded that of the William of this sketch. Besides this, William was a very strong adherent of the English Church and faith, and because of this his oldest son, Jesse, who had become a convert to the Baptist faith, was banished from his home. Jesse therefore wended his way westward, and after many hardships of the journey, and narrow escapes from the Indians, settled in Warren County, Tennessee. About this same period other Dodson families from Virginia emigrated to Kentucky, among whom the same family names appear, and especially that of Jesse.

(1701) Jesse, the son of William, married, and raised quite a family in Warren County. He adhered to his Baptist faith and became an earnest and successful minister of that denomination. His children were: Jesse, Elisha, William, Nimrod, Sarah and Tabitha. These children were born from about 1780, and after. After these were grown up and married, Jesse and Elisha went to seek a new home in McMinn County, and deciding to settle there, returned and brought their aged father, where they all found a home in the beautiful Estanalle Valley.

His children grew up in the same faith, and Elisha, the second son, also became a Baptist minister. Many descendants of these still remain in that locality, while others have become widely scattered as the years have passed. Genealogy of these, as fully as ascertained, will follow. (Reference to Kentucky families.)

(1701) Jesse Dodson, of William, (probably) of George,
of Jesse, of the early James River, Va., colony.

The records of but few of these have been obtained. This is much to be regretted, as the family have been most worthy and substantial people in the region where they settled over a century ago.

Henry, the sixth child became a Baptist preacher and was a noted evangelist whose sermons and impressive oratorical power won many to lead Christian lives. Descendants of a few of these will follow. John M. Dodson, known familiarly as "Judge Jack," was also a deacon of Estanalle church, and one of the most esteemed citizens of his county.

SKETCH.

William C. Dodson, now a resident of Atlanta, Georgia, and an influential citizen and prosperous business man, was a private soldier in the Confederate Army of the South, and now a member of Atlanta Camp, U. C. Veterans. On December 31, 1861, three months before his 16th birthday, he joined Co. C, 43rd Mississippi Infantry. At the end of six months' service he was discharged on account of his youth, but within thirty days he re-enlisted in a troop of partisan rangers, which became Company D of the 51st Alabama Regiment, commanded by Col. John T. Morgan. He served as a private in this command, with Gen. Joe Wheeler's Cavalry Corps, during his campaigns of 1862, including the fighting around Nashville and the battle of Murfreesboro. In 1863 he was on duty with the outposts of Bragg's army, and in almost continuous fighting during the retreat to Chattanooga and North Georgia. On September 9th, 1863, in a fight at McLemore's Cove, Georgia, he was taken prisoner, sent North, confined at Camp Chase, Ohio, six months, and one year at Rock Island, Ill. In March, 1865, he was taken to Virginia and exchanged. On his return to Alabama he engaged in one more fight near Anniston, with a body of Wilson's Raiders. Before starting for the war his father, then quite advanced in years, broken in health and spirit, said to him: "You will probably not see me again, my race is run. I have not a dollar to leave you, but leave you the name of an honest man, for with all my misfortunes there is not living a man, a woman or a child who can say that John J. Dodson defrauded them of a single cent." Though the subject of this sketch was so young, he says "it has come back to him a thousand times since, and has been an inspiration to leave to his boys the legacy his father left him, a legacy," he says, "I have never seen the time I would have exchanged for a million of dollars." He never saw his father again. Beginning after the war as a journeyman printer he soon advanced to the ownership of a printing establishment, and in 1885 he established a "Printers' Supply Company," which commands a large trade throughout the Gulf States. He has also edited the very valuable history of the "Campaigns of Wheeler and His Cavalry."

DODSON GENEALOGY.

THE OLD MAN'S STORY.

I am a stenographer, employed by a corporation, the President of which is an old gentleman, or rather a gentle old man, to whom all who know him well are much attached. One day "the old man," as he is called by the younger ones, noticed in one of my books my name written "Sallie A," and asked me if I was not christened Sarah. I replied that I was, but that I preferred being called Sallie. His reply was:

"I like the name of Sarah best, for I once knew a heroine of that name, and if you would like to hear it I will some time tell you the story of her life."

A few days later he handed me the following manuscript:

"Carve deep their names in brass or stone
Who for their homes and country bled,
Who lie uncoffined and unknown
Upon the field of honor, dead.

But carve there, too, the names of those
Who fought the fight of faith and truth,
Bending beneath life's wintry snows,
Or battling in the pride of youth.

Who'er have kindled one bright ray
In hearts whence hope and joy have fled,
Have not lived vainly, such as they Are on the field of honor, dead."

I am, as you know, not much given to poetry, but the above extract seems appropriate to the story I will relate, as it is not one of brilliant achievement, not even of a brilliant woman, but of an humble little school mistress who "fought the fight of faith and truth," and many years ago passed to her sure reward, but who was, nevertheless, the bravest woman I have ever known.

Her name was Sarah Frances—not a high-sounding one by any means, but the parents of a few generations ago were plain people and gave to their children plain names. She was the eldest of three sisters belonging to a family best described as poor and proud—and she the proudest of them all—but with a different pride from the rest. There were three younger children in the family—two girls and one boy. As the father had been married twice, it was not a happy family—few such families ever are—and the lot of the step-mother was not an enviable one. There was friction between the younger and older children, and even the family servants were divided in their loyalty.

DODSON GENEALOGY.

There was but little congeniality or affection between Sarah and her own sisters, but the younger children loved her, for she was kind to them and their mother, and among the first words the little ones learned to lisp were "Thith Tharah."

She was always practical and industrious, and being a little prim and precise in her manners, was early called an old maid, though only two years the senior of her sisters, and really handsomer.

All three received liberal education, but only Sarah turned hers to practical account. Soon after her graduation from college she commenced teaching, so as to relieve her father from some of the burden of a large family by paying her own expenses, and when she married she had saved up enough to buy a modest home.

Her marriage appeared auspicious, as her husband was a young Presbyterian minister, whom I will call Harris, though that was not his name. He was highly educated, popular, and with reasonably bright prospects for future success. It soon developed, unfortunately, that he was deficient in practical wisdom, and after only a few years of married life the home was sold, and the wife was forced to resume teaching in order to assist in maintaining a growing family.

Then the Civil War came on and the end found the fortunes of the family much changed for the worse. The father and one of the younger sisters had died, the mother had left the old home, one of the older girls, who had also married, was a widow, her husband having died in a Federal prison, and life with all had resolved itself into a struggle to keep the wolf from the door.

Mr. Harris and his family were lost sight of for a time, and when I again heard from them they were in South America. A number of ex-Confederates, despairing of their future under the government they had fought to dissolve, had formed a colony and emigrated to Brazil, and Mr. Harris, always visionary and impractical, cast in his lot with them to act as chaplain.

Of the history of this ill-starred enterprise but little is known, except that all of the colonists eventually made their way back to the States, but that the hardships and privations of Mrs. Harris and her husband were fearful I have heard her reluctantly relate, and when at last they were rescued by the U. S. Government they left behind them the graves of two of their little children. They came to Springfield, Illinois, where Mr. Harris for a time preached in their own language to a Portuguese congregation. Here they made the acquaintance of Mrs. Lincoln and received many kindnesses from the widow of the martyred President.

Early in the seventies the Harris family landed in this city, it consisting, besides the parents, of three children—one boy and two girls. They were poor even to the verge of desperation, and why the wife and mother was not overwhelmed with despair, seemed a wonder—perhaps it was because she was a wife and mother. She did not, however waste time in useless repining, but at once set about to find means to better their condition, while Mr. Harris, though a good man and a Christian—but Micawber-like—did not seem greatly impressed with the distress of himself and family.

A little school was opened, but it scarcely served to provide even scant bread, and gave no promise for the future. About this time our public school system was inaugurated, and Mrs. Harris applied for a position, but being a stranger and without influence, hers was not among the number when the names of the successful candidates were announced. Greatly disappointed, but not despairing she again went before the Board of Education and pleaded for recognition. I've said she was a proud woman, and she was, but she asked no charity—only the privilege of performing efficient labor in exchange for her childrens' bread. But there was in store for her a still greater trial of her pride.

One of the Board of Education, who had known her when she was a girl, and members of her church, interested themselves in her behalf with the result that she was offered a position in one of the colored schools. What this meant to a proud Southern woman, who had at least once been high strung and sensitive, only Southern men and women can know or appreciate, and though the thought of such work harried her very soul, she rose grandly equal to the occasion. She would accept the situation, but not without the approval of her younger half-brother—then the sole male representative of her family. She sent for him and laid the proposition before him, saying:

"Cabe," (the pet name she had called him when a child) "I am an old woman, I haven't long to live, but you and Jule (his sister) are young; I don't mind it for myself, but don't wish to do anything that would mortify you."

DODSON GENEALOGY.

Then in that brother's heart was a struggle—maybe one between pride and principle, but that will pain him to his dying day,—but he gave the right answer, though with tears in his eyes, as he said:

“Yes, take it, Sis-Sarah—no honest work is dishonorable—but God knows that if I was able to keep you from it, you should never do it while I lived.”

She accepted the situation resignedly, and did her duty faithfully and well, and if she felt humiliated she gave no outward sign. Only once did she revolt, and that was when there was to be a public parade of the children of all the schools with the teachers at the head of each grade. She marshalled her dusky pupils, gave them in charge of the janitor, with a note to the superintendent, saying that was all she could do. And it was enough, for the superintendent respected her feelings and asked no more.

As soon as it could be consistently arranged she was transferred to the white schools, in which she spent the remainder of her life.

Mr. Harris' health, never robust, had been gradually giving away. He had for several years been afflicted with epilepsy, which, either from sensitiveness or ignorance of the nature of the malady, he and his wife had tried to conceal. In one of his spasms his life went out. There was no money to pay funeral expenses, for her small salary provided only a bare living, but here her pride now commenced to show the stuff of which it was made. She rejected all offers of help, only asking her brother to arrange for her to pay in instalments the expense necessary to give her husband decent burial.

A few years later her son, who had arrived at the age when she could reasonably hope that he would be a help and comfort to her, came home from extensive wanderings to die with consumption. Again only the help of her brother was sought, and it only in the way it was first accepted.

Then her youngest daughter was stricken with a paralysis that destroyed all use of her arms—she not being able to brush a fly from her face—and for nearly three years lay in this condition. To make the situation more horrible she became irritable to the last degree, and frequently abusive even to her mother.

Then the eldest daughter, after an unfortunate marriage which brought great distress and unhappiness to her already overburdened mother, died after a lingering illness.

Throughout all this the Spartan mother kept calmly on her weary way, making no complaint and appealing for no sympathy or assistance. If she shed tears no one ever saw them, and to some she appeared cold-hearted and lacking in affection, but maybe her burdens and responsibilities left her no time for grief. Once when she had fallen on the ice and broken her arm, her brother made a last appeal to her to allow him to assist her—telling her that he was not as poor as he had been, and was able to share some of her pecuniary burdens. With a grateful smile she replied:

“No, Cabe, you have your work to do and I have mine. When I can go no further I will call for you, and I know you will come,” and the only assistance he ever rendered was done without her knowledge.

After a time the younger daughter died, and then I knew the end of the mother was not far off, for I felt that with the severing of the last tie that held her to earth, the tired spirit would cease its striving and relax its hold; that her work being done, and well done, she would wish for the rest and peace she had so long craved, and which only the grave and the hope of blessed immortality could give.

And so it proved, for in a few days the brother was sent for, and when he came she said: “I need you now, for my journey is about ended, and I wish to tell you what I wish done when I am gone.” She was not in bed, and he tried to comfort her by telling her that she could get well, but he saw only too plainly that her strength was well-nigh spent.

Ever self-poised and self-reliant through life, at the last she was able to enter the valley of the shadow and feel no fear; so she gently put aside her brother’s hopes, telling him that she knew her end was near, and that she was ready to go, that death had no terrors for her whatever, and then gave him a letter to be opened when she was dead, and which letter was found to contain minute directions as to the disposition of her small worldly effects, even to a provision for the care of the lot where she was to be buried, and where all of her family were sleeping except the two little ones left in far-off Brazil.

The brother left, promising to come back the next day, to which she objected, saying that it was not necessary, but to come the day after. He came, though, the second day, and on the third he found her dying. She was entirely conscious, but said she was suffering considerably, and asked that something be given her to make death a little less painful. Before the physicians could be summoned she had passed quietly to the comfort and peace she deserved so well. And knowing what her life had been—knowing that now her mission was accomplished, and life held nothing for which she cared, I cannot say that I would have called her back if I could.

It was not a grand funeral—the relatives, the minister and a few of her humble neighbors only followed the little schoolmistress to her last resting place. But when I went back to my office I called up the employes of the establishment, and told them this simple true story I am telling you, saying to them I hoped it would be an inspiration to them as it had been to me—adding that she had fought the fight of faith and truth and in comparison with the bravery which her life had exemplified the courage of battlefield heroes sank into utter insignificance.

My story is practically ended, but there is a little more to add. In order to legally dispose of her small amount of money and other effects, it became necessary for the brother to take out letters of administration from the Ordinary (Probate Judge in most States). In making final settlement he told the Judge he would like to devote a small sum to the erection of a modest monument, but if the regular court fees were charged there would not be enough money left.

"How much do wish the monument to cost?" asked the kind-hearted Judge. The sum was named, and he replied: "Then erect the monument and pay me only what is left."

So this brave woman sleeps under a monument erected from the proceeds of her own labor, and on it is inscribed, after name and dates:

"After a life of unselfish toil, and heroic devotion to duty, she finds rest and reward in Heaven."

Note.—The name "Harris" in above sketch is fictitious. The real name is Harvey. Miss Sarah Frances Dodson married Rev. H. L. Harvey, as will be seen by reference to this branch of the Dodson family history.

every advantage of school and college in music and art was given her, and in this wide culture she developed into a noble character. Her brief wedded life soon ended what promised to be one of long happiness and joy to husband and friends, and when taken ill they were just ready to enter a new and well-furnished home. She was buried in her bridal robes, in Cincinnati. On her maternal side she was connected with the well known Wilson family of Harrison County, Ohio. Her great-great-grandfather was Colonel Benjamin Wilson, of Clarksburg, and her great-grandfather was the late Daniel D. Wilson, of the same place. Her grandmother was Mrs. William C. Maholme, of Newark, Ohio, who before her marriage was Miss Henrietta Wilson, and whose early life was spent at the Wilson homestead at Clarksburg.

MISCELLANEOUS IV.

1881. James Dodson, of Americus, Ga., was a lawyer of note for many years, now deceased, Nov. 28, 1898. His son is also a lawyer at the same place, viz, Hon. W. A. Dodson, who was president of the Georgia State Senate and delivered the address of welcome to the late President McKinley on the occasion of his visit to the South in 1899. It is a source of regret that the genealogy of this line has not been obtained.

In Albany, Texas, are the names of two brothers, 1883 J. C., and 1884 J. E. Dodson, in connection with the Albany National Bank.

MISCELLANEOUS V.

The following very interesting family sketch was furnished by Mr. Alfred T. Dodson, an English gentleman now residing in Chicago: "My great-grandfather lived at 'The Ashes,' Selston, Nottinghamshire, England." "Selston" was the ancient home of many generations of the Dodson family, and where several generations are buried in the Seltston parish churchyard.

1885 The great-grandfather (name not mentioned) had several sons and daughters, 1886 Thomas, 1887 William, 1888 Matthew, 1889 George, and 1890, a daughter, who married 1891 Thomas Bland, of "Shipton Hill," Selston.

Note.—The early families were all well-to-do farmers and owned their lands for generations. (1901) Mr. Alfred T. Dodson is the only one of the family in this country. 1907 Benjamin Dodson, a cousin of Samuel, his father, fought in the Civil War in this country and was never heard of afterwards. But few of this male line in England yet survive.

MISCELLANEOUS VI.

Another Dodson line of hardy and pioneer stock, with the same characteristic traits of sturdy worth and energy, in the peopling of this new country, as of the numerous family lines recorded herein, claim a brief tribute and record on this final page.

Two brothers, William and Jesse Dodson, were among the early settlers of South Carolina. Tradition of the family is that they came from Scotland. If so, it must have been from England first, as long and patient research and investigation by the author finds the Dodson name there from the early centuries.

Said William the Elder left two sons,—William, Jr., and Joshua,—and one daughter. William, Sr., while clearing land for his home, was surprised by the Indians, and in attempting to escape, through and over the piles of brush, dislocated his ankle, was overtaken, killed and scalped.

Jesse, the brother, with his family of twelve sons, finally settled in Tennessee, whose numerous descendants are scattered far and wide South and West.

William Dodson, Jr., also settled in Tennessee, where his family of four sons were born and reared, viz.: Constantine, Joel, Elisha and William Riley Dodson. The three elder of these sons finally emigrated to Texas. Among their numerous descendants, nine were soldiers in the Civil War, C. S. A., and four of these were slain in battle. Colonel Jasper Dodson, a son of Constantine, served under General Jackson in the War of 1812-14. Constantine died at his home near Fort Worth. Elisha Dodson was a practicing physician in Eastern Texas. William Riley Dodson later removed to Mississippi, and was also a physician and planter in Winslow County.

William Dodson, Jr., the father of these, in his advanced years removed to Alabama and died there.

Dr. William Riley Dodson left one son, Dr. W. J. Dodson, and three daughters.

Dr. W. J. Dodson, now resident of Dossville, Miss., is still engaged, after thirty-three years, in the active duties of his profession. His family consists of six children, viz.: Dr. J. R. Dodson, Dr. J. C. Dodson, George, Annie, Connie and Nannie Dodson. Annie, the oldest daughter, is the wife of James T. Buck, editor of the "Chilicothe Independent," Texas.

In this rather meagre sketch of a quite remarkable family line, the number of physicians named is specially worthy of note, as follows:

DODSON GENEALOGY.

Dr. Joshua Dodson, brother of William Dodson, Jr., who practiced at Fayetteville, Lincoln Co., Tenn.

Dr. Elisha Dodson, of Eastern Texas.

Dr. William Riley Dodson, Winslow Co., Miss.

Dr. William J. Dodson, Dossville, Miss.

Dr. J. R. Dodson, Dossville, Miss.

Dr. J. C. Dodson Gray, Leake Co., Miss.

The early William, of South Carolina, who was slain by the Indians, is named as the great-great-grandfather of Dr. W. J. Dodson, of Dossville, Miss., who contributed notes for this sketch.
